Fighting Continues

A communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said fighting continued after allied troops routed Japanese outposts near Kokoda, 60 miles from Port Moresby but separated from the allied port by the towering Owen Stanley range.

The war bulletin said allied bombers set fire to Japanese supply dumps in the Kokoda area, indicating that the invaders were moving up material to build bases to bolster a thrust farther across the peninsula.

In China Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced that 110 Japanese planes—apparently a new concentration of improved fighters—participated in a 36-plane attack on the United States army air force base at Hengyang in Hunan province, starting before daybreak last Thursday.

MURRAY CALLS PEACE PARLEY

CIO Head Reopens Negotiations for Labor Settlement with AFL.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3 — The possibility of a reconciliation between the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor was revived today by a proposal of CIO President Philip Murray for renewal of peace negotiations.

Murray wrote William Green, president of the AFL, that he had named a CIO peace committee of three and asked Green to appoint a similar AFL group to discuss "possible establishment of organic unity between our organizations."

There was no immediate reply from Green. The AFL executive council meets tomorrow in Chicago, but there was no announcement whether it would consider Murray's proposal.

Previous peace efforts in 1937 and 1939 failed.

The CIO leader also suggested to Green the creation of a joint AFL-CIO committee, with an impartial arbitrator, to handle all jurisdictional disputes between the two organizations. Murray said such disputes had caused several work stoppages recently. Pending decisions by the proposed committee, he wrote, there should be no stoppages of work.

Murray stipulated that the peace discussions should not "under any circumstances, be permitted to interfere with the all-important matter of continued joint action between the CIO and AFL on issues affecting the fullest possible prosecution of the war effort."

TWO KENTON GIRLS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Driver Arrested After Collision Near Marion.

Two persons were injured in a two-car accident involving Marion and Hardin county residents Saturday night at 10 on Route 30-S, three miles west of Marion.

Listed as suffering minor injuries were Loretta Jones, 14, and Leoria Jones, 21, both of Kenton.

The accident was investigated by the state highway patrol.

The young women were in a car driven by Don R. Huston, 32, of Kenton, who was arrested on a charge of reckless operation of a car. He posted $15 bond for his appearance today in Marion municipal court.

According to the patrol report, Mr. Huston, traveling west, attempted to pass another westbound car driven by Charles Pfeiffer, 35, of near Marion. He didn't succeed and collided with the rear end of Mr. Pfeiffer car, in which Mrs. Lucille Pfeiffer, 29, was a passenger. Both cars went into the ditch but neither was badly damaged.

YAMASHITA IN NORTH

CHUNGKING, Aug. 3—Unconfirmed reports reaching Chungking today said that Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, Japan's German-trained conqueror of Malaya, had gone to Manchukuo possibly to take up the supreme command there in preparation for an attack on Siberia.

LOGAN, O., Aug. 3 — Homer Campbell, 18, was killed by a truck near his home at Murray City yesterday.

Thursday Deadline for Absent Voters

Deadline for making application for absent voters' ballots is 6:30 p. m. Thursday, C. G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the Marion county board of elections again today reminded voters.

Applications must be returned to the board by noon on Friday.

The board of elections office is located on the second floor at 134½ East Center street.

Bond and Stamp Quota Exceeded Again in County

Sales of war bonds and stamps totalling $318,756.50 put Marion county $24,956.50 over its July quota of $293,800, the Marion county war stamp and bond staff announced today.

The total will be even higher, officials said, when a report comes in from the federal reserve bank in Cleveland through which the F and G series of corporation bonds are handled. One month the corporation bond sales totaled $100,000, another month, $6,000 and at one time the month's total was $500. It will be several days before the bank releases the total for July.

Staff officials were happy today over Marion again having exceeded its quota and expressed the opinion that the August quota probably will be the same as the July goal.

So far, it was pointed out, Marion county has exceeded its quota every month.

The "Retailers for Victory" program was instrumental in raising in excess of $25,000 worth of the July total, it was reported.

HARDIN COUNTY WOMAN PASSES OHIO BAR EXAM

Several Others from Area Also Successful

One woman, Pauline R. Cole of Ada, is among applicants from Marion vicinity who passed the recent Ohio State bar examination, according to an Associated Press report from Columbus.

Other successful applicants from this area include Ralph R. Dollison, Harry A. Hoffman and Scott D. McCoy, all of Ada; Charles H. Shobe of Lima, and Richard D. Arnold, George C. Balliet, Donald E. Smith and Frank F. Vesper of Mansfield.

Roy Manogue Jr., of Cincinnati, with a grade of 93.4 per cent, led the successful applicants.

Two hundred and seventeen of the 236 applicant passed the examination. Chief Justice Carl C. Weygandt will administer the oath of office in Columbus Friday, in Cincinnati Saturday and in Cleveland a week from today.

BOWES PLANT BURGLARIZED

About $26 and a .32 caliber revolver were stolen from the Bowes ice cream plant at Davids street and Bellefontaine avenue in an early morning break-in reported to police today. Officers said entrance was gained through a rear window in the ice cream plant and that the money had been obtained by jimmying the cash register. A file case was ransacked.

$11,000 LOSS IN ERIE CAR FIRE

Freight Car and Contents Blaze at "Hump;" Matches in Shipment Ignited.

A fire in a freight car of merchandise on the Erie "hump" west of Marion early Saturday night resulted in damage estimated unofficially at about $11,000.

Fire Chief T. J. McFarland said the fire was detected about 7:45 p. m. and that it apparently was started by several large metal valves falling on cartons of matches.

Erie officials said a detailed report of the damage was being made today but that details as to the nature of the merchandise were not yet available. However, they said no war materials were involved. Chief McFarland said among other things the car contained bolts of cloth, tires, tubes, a large saw, the 75 to 100-pound valves and several cartons of matches.

Firemen got the flames under control with the auxiliary "booster" pump on the new truck and then the freight car was hauled down the tracks to the Kenton avenue crossing where a city hydrant was utilized.

Chief McFarland said it took nearly two hours to extinguish the fire. He said the estimate included $1,000 damage to the car itself.

BIBLE CONFERENCE SERVICES LAUNCHED

Sixth Annual Series of Meetings Opens in Garfield Park.

The sixth annual Evangelical Bible conference began yesterday at 2:30 p. m. at Chatauqua pavilion in Garfield park with Dr. T. R. Dunham of Findlay, founder of Fundamental Truth publishers, and of Calvary church, Findlay, speaking on "The Strange Work of the Holy Spirit." At 7:30 he spoke on "The Future of Europe —Will Democracy Survive?" He also talked to young people of Oakland Evangelical church at a 6:30 meeting on "The White Horses of Revelation."

The second week of the conference, beginning Sunday, will have Russell M. Ward, member of the America Back to God quartet, as evangelist and musician. Special speakers Saturday this week and Sunday will be Miss Anne E. Thomas of Warren who has recently returned from Honduras and Monday and Tuesday, Miss Eunice Stowell of Fayette returned from French Equatorial Africa.

Time of evening services has been changed from 7:30 to 8 for the remainder of the period. Children's meetings are held at 3 p. m. daily.

German Plane Attacks Outpost in Iceland

By The Associated Press

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 3—A German plane bombed and machine-gunned a remote military installation on southeastern Iceland yesterday. United States military authorities announced today, saying there were no casualties and only negligible damage.

This was the fifth instance of German air activity over Iceland, garrisoned by U. S. troops, within two weeks. The attack apparently was minor, but the army declined further details.

The attacking plane was a Focke-Wulf.

WHITE HOUSE TO GET VERDICT ON SABOTEURS

Army Commission's Findings To Be Delivered To President During Day.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 — The White House said today that it expected the findings of the military commission which tried alleged German saboteurs to be delivered to the President during the day.

Presumably the military tribunal's recommendations will not be made public until they have been reviewed by the Chief Executive. Mr. Roosevelt is expected to withhold his approval until he has had time to look thoroughly into the records of the trial.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said he believed the military commission's findings would be delivered to the White House today and he declared they would be placed before the President "as soon as possible."

The defendants and government and defense counsel were summoned before the commission again as it met in the justice building today after private sessions Saturday afternoon and yesterday.

After a brief meeting, the commission issued this statement which indicated it had reached a judgment:

"The commission reconvened at 11:05 a. m. The commission announced that the findings and sentence will not be announced by it. The commission adjourned at 11:07 to meet at the call of the President."

The President from whom the first public disclosure of the judgment is expected to come, alone has power to alter the commission's decision which could carry a death penalty for all or part of the defendants.

The secrecy which has surrounded the case since the start remained unbreached.

In the absence of any word from the commission as to what course the trial was taking, Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, provost marshal of the District of Columbia and custodian of the accused, explained that the announcement today's session would be "open" meant merely that the accused and attorneys would be present.

Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, president of the seven-general commission, said in a statement that the panel had met in "closed" session yesterday, adding that it was convening in an "open" hearing today. This led to conjecture that the military men had agreed on a verdict and were ready to announce it to the defendants and counsel.

Under terms of the presidential order creating the commission the panel's findings must be forwarded to Mr. Roosevelt for review. If the generals decide the eight alleged saboteurs, who landed on American shores armed with explosives for wrecking war plants, are guilty, it still must recommend the penalty, which could include death on the gallows or before firing squads.

Counsel for the prisoners tried unsuccessfully last week to free them from the military commission for trial in the civil courts. The supreme court ruled, however, that the commission was lawfully constituted and that the defendants were rightfully in the army's custody.

Col. Kenneth Royall, army-appointed defense counsel, told the supreme court the eight men were refugees from Nazi oppression, although they admitted landing from German submarines on the Florida coast and on Long Island. Attorney General Biddle contended they came to American shores as trained German saboteurs.

Hospital Fund Request To Be Filed Tuesday

Marion's application for federal funds to finance construction of a temporary addition to Marion City hospital will be filed in Chicago Tuesday morning by Mayor R. C. Snare and Thomas McLaughlin, Lima architect.

An appointment with the regional engineer for the defense works division of the federal works agency in Chicago was made today by telephone by Mayor Snare. Both men will confer with FWA officials regarding the application.

Prospect Firm Launches First Coast Guard Boat

Virtually Entire Community Turns Out for Event; 100 More Firefighting Craft To Be Produced.

By BOB BYRD

The Hanley Engineering Service of Prospect yesterday launched the first of 101 firefboats it is building for the United States coast guard.

As the huge job of conversion the boats in double-quick time for wartime service has turned the community into a beehive of industrial activity ever since the order was signed early in May, virtually the whole town turned out for the launching event.

Keenan Hanley, head of the concern, and others have worked day and night on the government order and since it happened to be 3 o'clock Sunday morning when arrangements for the launching were completed, Hanley didn't bother to wait for daylight but dumped the big fireboat into the river at 3 a. m.

Although the community generally wasn't on hand for the early-morning party, it turned out en masse yesterday morning and afternoon to see the big boat perform—and perform it did to the satisfaction of everyone heard making comments on it. It chugged up and down the river in the morning, and again in the afternoon. Scores of automobiles lined the banks, dozens of them driving slowly along the road to keep a constant watch on the boat.

Job Well Done

The 100 horsepower marine motors that power the boat and the pumps that push huge jets of water into the air for fire-fighting purposes weren't turned wide open yesterday, because the first runs were for test purposes and the motors hadn't been broken in. However, the boat was put through enough of its paces to demonstrate that it could do its job—and well, in the opinion of Hanley and others who have watched the progress of the job.

Almost everybody that owned a rowboat or an outboard motor boat had it on the river yesterday to get a closer look at the big boat. The little craft raced up and down the river, causing one spectator to comment that the new boat had more than an ample escort.

The launching was an engineering job in itself. A stone and concrete ramp had been built down to the river's edge in anticipation of the launching. A giant truck with scores of huge rollers as its top surface was constructed and the boat was placed on this. The truck was backed down the ramp until the back wheels were below the river's surface, and the boat was rolled gently into the river.

Evidence of Speedy Work

The big truck used for launching had to be constructed especially for its job, and it so happened that the boat was finished Saturday night a short time before the truck was ready. Typical of the speed with which the job is being pushed, some of the welded joints on the truck were still hot when the boat was lifted on it to be hauled to the river.

Yesterday a preview of the boat was concerned with its seaworthiness and not with its appearance. The boat looked all right but it didn't have the final paint job, nor many of the accessories or small items of equipment that will be on it when it is delivered within a few days to the coast guard.

It and its 100 companion boats will go into service as rapidly as

County's Biggest Blueprint Shop Now In Operation

The biggest shop ever operated in Marion county for making blueprints — duplicates of drawings made by engineers and draftsmen to guide workers in all phases of construction work — is grinding out huge quantities of prints for the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

In the office building of Holabird & Root, architect-engineers for the project, the blueprint shop is operating with a crew of four persons.

Two giant blueprint machines have a capacity of 5,000 square feet of printing an hour. This pace is never maintained over a long period, but already the shop has turned out as much as 12,000 square feet of blueprints in a single day and has had one-week runs of 72,000 square feet.

In addition, the shop also has photostat equipment, a camera-like device through which a photographic reproduction of drawings or letters can be made quickly.

In connection with its reproduction work for the project, the shop is able to turn out large quantities of blank forms that are used on the job. Copies of forms can be turned out rapidly after a draftsman has drawn up the original form.

The blueprints turned out by the shop are both for construction work and layout of machinery and other equipment, all of which is being worked out through Holabird & Root architects and engineers. Copies go to various branches of the war department and to the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co.

BICYCLE RAPE CASE CLEARED

Marion Man, 21, Reported To Have Confessed Attack on Four-Year-Old Girl.

A criminal attack on a four-year-old Marion girl last April 22 by a "man who took her a bicycle ride" was reported cleared today with the arrest of 21-year-old Eugene Robert Cramner of Marion.

His arrest by city police yesterday afternoon resulted from his efforts to take another young girl on a bicycle ride. A woman living in the vicinity of the north end of Grand avenue saw him with two girls, ages 10 and 11, became suspicious and called police.

Police Capt. E. C. Mackan and Patrolman Lew Shadaker immediately went to the north end of Grand avenue, near where the incident was reported and found Cramner riding his bicycle.

They questioned him and he at first denied having one of the girls on his bicycle. Checking with the girls, police learned he had tried to take the 11-year-old girl a ride "out in the country" but that she had jumped off the bicycle and fled.

They took Cramner to police station and started questioning him about the attack on the four-year-old Marion girl on April 22 by a bicycle-riding man, and reported that shortly afterward he confessed.

Statement Recorded

Prosecuting Attorney James E. Reed was called and he, in the presence of a group of witnesses, took a statement from Cramner in which they said he told a complete story of the April 22 attack.

Cramner was held by police today pending the filing of charges. Prosecutor Reed said the charge will be either rape or attempted rape.

Cramner said he and a sister with whom he lives on Adams street had gone to a theater in Marion on the night of April 22, saw a cowboy picture, and that he afterward took his bicycle and rode out to a cafe at East Center and Grand avenue to get some cigarets.

While there shortly after 10 o'clock, he said he saw a little girl dancing. Police reports at the time showed that the girl had gone to the cafe for some candy and that she occasionally played around the place because her home was in an apartment nearby.

Followed from Cafe

He said he followed her out of the cafe and asked her to take a ride with him on his bicycle. He said she consented and climbed onto the handlebars. They rode up Grand avenue, across Kentucky avenue and up Jefferson street to Fairground street and rode west a little way and stopped. There he said he attempted the attack but stopped when the girl yelled.

He said he then took her back to East Center street and Grand avenue and let her off the bicycle.

Cramner said he had avoided going back to the cafe since that time, but had ridden past a few times on his bicycle.

Police said he was one of the early suspects in the case but that the girl could not identify him nor was there any evidence to oppose the story he told at that time in which he denied having been near the place on the night of the attack.

About the only information police could get from the girl at that time was that the attacker's bicycle had a white headlight on the front fender, and police since that time have been searching for a bicycle that would answer the description. The arrest yesterday disclosed that Cramner had taken the light off the front fender and mounted it on the handlebars, thus changing the bicycle's appearance with respect to the only definite thing the girl could remember about it.

Cramner, police said, has been working as a farm hand and most recently has been employed near

NAZI ADVANCE IS RETARDED IN DON BEND AREA

Soviet Report Heavy Toll Taken; Germans Continue Caucasus Push.

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler's Russian offensive appeared today to be losing impetus against slowly tightening Russian defenses at the Don bend approach to Stalingrad and along the last east line to the oil fields of the Caucasus as the Red army lashed back in a new show of strength.

Along the whole 300-mile arc from Kletskaya, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, to Kuibichevka, 30 miles south of Rostov, the Russians still were on the defensive; but the strengthening of their stand was indicated by the counterattacks which they reported hurled the Germans back with losses of 6,000 dead in a single day.

Don and Kuban Cossacks led the counterattacks in the critical sallents of Kushchevka and Salsk, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, in the first intimation that the big garrison of the north Caucasus may have been thrown into the fight.

Deepest Penetration

It was in this sector that the Germans made their deepest penetration into the northern Caucasus.

The German high command said one of its tank columns was now "nearing the upper course of the Kuban river."

How far the Nazis were from the northern curve of the river was not specified.

The Kuban rises in the western glaciers of Elborus, the highest peak in Europe, and curves to the north within 70 miles of Salsk before turning west to empty through a broad, marshy delta into the Black sea just south of the strait of Kerch.

The Germans said the Russian rear guard was being forced south from the Yeya river which runs through Kuschevka to Taganrog bay, the northeastern arm of the sea of Azov. The Berlin communique said other German forces which crossed the Don south of Tsimyansk were rolling the Russians back to the east, between the Sal and the Don rivers. This would indicate a German effort to widen their Caucasus wedge between Rostov and Tsimlyansk.

Red Attacks Stronger

The German high command acknowledged that the Red army was striking back with fresh force in the Don bend and at Voronezh on the exposed northern flank of the German offensive, but said the attacks were being withstood.

"In the areas of Kushchevka and Salsk," a Russian communique said, "our troops continued to fight severe defensive battles against the enemy. In several successful counter attacks Don and Kuban Cossack units killed 1,500 Germans."

The Moscow war bulletin gave this account of the fight in the other key sallents:

"In the Tsimlyansk area (midway between Salsk and Stalingrad) an attack by two enemy infantry battalions was repulsed. . . .

"In the Kletskaya area the Germans attacked in a number of sectors with infantry and tanks supported by aircraft which bombed Soviet troop positions. Our troops firmly withstood the enemy's pressure and flung them

MARION YOUTHS GET CALL TO AIR CORPS

Jack Ruth and Merlin Mitton Enrolled As Cadets.

Jack Ruth, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Ruth of 211 Bain avenue, and Merlin Mitton, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Mitton of 200 Barnhart street, went to Columbus today for assignment to training as air corps cadets.

Both enlisted at Columbus in March and on March 31 passed their physical examinations and were formally inducted as cadets.

Mitton, a member of the Harding High school class of 1939, starred as a center on the 1938 football team. Prior to his induction he was employed at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. His father is custodian at the Ohio Associated Telephone Co.

Ruth was the Harding basketball team manager in 1941 and following his graduation that year he worked in the cost department of the Huber Mfg. Co. for several months. This spring he assisted his father, chief engineer and draftsman for the government land acquisition office here, in surveying work.

G.O.P MAY ACT ON VACANCY IN COURT

Committee May Indorse Candidate; Four Mentioned.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3—The Republican state central and executive committees met today, possibly to indorse a candidate for the supreme court seat left vacant by the death of Judge Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati.

The meeting was called by State Chairman Ed D. Sweet, and four names floated as likely candidate prospects.

They were William S. Evatt, state tax commissioner, E. G. Schueler, chief counsel for the attorney general, Clinton D. Boyd of Middletown, who fought unsuccessfully four times to gain the bench, and Judge Charles S. Bell of Hamilton county common pleas court.

Schorr suggested last week that Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert be appointed to fill the vacancy, but both Herbert and Gov. Bricker were reported to have frowned upon it.

Should Bricker fill the vacancy by appointment, it would be effective only until the November election.

Any candidate indorsed must file by Sept. 4 petitions bearing about 33,000 signatures of which not more than half may be from any one county, but at least 10 must come from each of 30 counties. The Democrats are not expected to make any indorsement until the new state central committee meets after the primary next week.

Herbert said he told the party chairman he did not think it would be appropriate for him to resign as a candidate for reelection to accept the judgeship.

IRREGULAR SUPPLY OF STEEL REPORTED

Fabrication of War Products Delayed in Some Cases.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3—Irregular supply is causing some delays in production of fabricated war products, the magazine Steel said today.

"In some cases bars are not available for use with plates which already have been delivered, especially in the case of plate and structural fabricators, and heavy diversion to shipbuilding use limits receipts of shapes for other uses," the trade publication continued.

Order departments find difficulty keeping pace with rerating of steel orders, designed to place most essential needs under the new higher designations and, Steel added:

"Instructions to rerate orders are so numerous it leads some sellers to believe the purpose of establishing higher priority classifications may be defeated, with producers in a position where deliveries on AA orders will be extended as on a tonnage before the change.

"The large number of revisions also gives rise to the question whether authority to issue ratings is under as close control as it should be."

National ingot production because of furnace repairs fell a half-point last week to 98 per cent of estimated capacity. District declines included Pittsburgh 1 point to 93½ per cent, Cincinnati 3½ to 88½, and Cleveland 3½ to 93. Youngstown climbed one point to 96, Wheeling 3½ to 84 and Detroit 84 to 89.

Unpredictable Sweeney Faces Hardest Campaign of His Political Career

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3 — Rep. Martin L. Sweeney, perhaps the most colorful and unpredictable of Ohio's 24 congressmen, faces the greatest test of his political career in seeking the Democratic renomination at the Aug. 11 primary.

Opposing him is Michael A. Feighan, lawyer and former Ohio legislator who views the race as "a test which will tell Hitler and his gestapo and the treacherous Japs whether Cleveland was for President Roosevelt's policies before Pearl Harbor or against them."

Sweeney is 57, Feighan 37. Both are of Irish descent.

The congressman since 1931 has represented the traditionally Democratic and strongly Rooseveltian 20th district, which lies wholly within Cleveland and is made up of 20 nationalities. Before the nation went to war, he voted against nine administration foreign policy measures, including repeal of the arms embargo, selective service, lend-lease and the arming of American merchant ships. He supported only the measure calling for 21 per cent expansion of the navy, and failed to vote on the bill to fortify Guam.

Loses White House Favor

For this, he lost the blessing of the President he helped nominate at Chicago in 1932 and brought down the censure of the three daily newspapers in his home town and the opposition of Mayor Frank J. Lausche. But Sweeney, who has been without White House and press support before, blithely went before constituents joining him for his 11th annual Lake Erie boat ride and told them:

"I voted the way you wanted me to. I was thinking like my President when he said 'No American boy will go to war.' If I was un-American in opposing foreign war involvment before Pearl Harbor, so was 80 per cent of the American people. Since Pearl Harbor, I have stood shoulder to shoulder with our commander-in-chief in supporting every war effort.

"If I was connected with Nazi propaganda, take me to jail and indict me. Then prove the charge. That's the American way.

"I'm not going to pull a single punch in this campaign," he continued, and the beer-drinking excursionists roared approval. This was the fighting Irishman they liked—the man who denounced Britain's king and queen in congress while they were visiting this country; who indulged in fisticuffs with Rep. Beverly M. Vincent (D-Ky.) who told the house Sweeney was a "traitor."

Democrats for Feighan

The regular Democratic organization here has indorsed Feighan. So has the CIO Cleveland Industrial Union council, representing about 85,000 workers. These two actions may cost Sweeney the nomination.

But the congressman backed by some AFL leaders, charges labor indorsements of his opponent were obtained "by two men in the back room of a saloon," and then, as an afterthought for the pleasure of his audience, he adds—

"If there's anybody who thinks a lot of me, it's the bartenders—not because of what I do in front of the bar, but for what I've done for them (he fought prohibition).

Sweeney the unpredictable decided last year to run for mayor of Cleveland, looking upon his candidacy as "an unofficial, national referendum on keeping our soldiers from fighting on foreign shores." He said then that if he were elected he would "lock up city hall, urge the entire city to join me and together we will march up Pennsylvania avenue to Washington to make the only effective protest against war that can be made." He ran third among four candidates in the nonpartisan city primary.

Feighan, Democratic son of a wealthy Republican banker, avows full support of the President's war aims and assails his opponent for deserting his party and joining "the apostles of appeasement."

Has Princeton Polish

He retains his Princeton polish and the studiousness of his days at Harvard law school, but having lost the nomination to Sweeney two years ago he's putting plenty of Irish into the fight this time.

He calls Sweeney "the leader of isolationism in northern Ohio and always a welcomed speaker at local German - American bund gatherings."

Feighan is young but well known in Ohio politics. Serving his first term as representative in the state legislature in 1937-39, he attracted attention by finding a sleeper clause in a banker-sponsored bill for securing public deposits. He also sought to abolish so-called "legal graft" in state government, and constantly reminded the Republican administration of its campaign pledges.

Returned to the legislature for a second term, he became the minority floor leader, then unsuccessfully sought Sweeney's congressional seat in 1940.

Brothers To Enter Army As Officer Candidates

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3—Closely associated in their civilian careers, the Wallace brothers—A. Stewart Jr., 30, the Ohio State Journal's city editor, and Jack B., 28, advertising salesman for a Columbus radio station—plan to enter the army Aug. 10 as volunteer officer candidates.

Born in Evansville, Ind., the brothers were reared at Sandusky, O., where their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart Wallace, now reside.

They played football on the Sandusky High school team. "Stew" entered Ohio State university and Jack chose Ohio Wesleyan, but later both entered the newspaper field. "Stew" became a reporter and Jack an advertising salesman for the Sandusky Daily News.

U. S. TO PUSH WHEAT SURPLUS ON MARKET

Supplies To Be Made Available for Livestock Feed.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 — Government owned wheat, accumulated through recent years of bumper crops, will be pushed into livestock consumption even more vigorously and at lower prices in the near future, trade experts reported today.

The government has been offering this feed wheat since mid-January at prices substantially below the market and has succeeded in disposing of 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels. This is only a little more than third of the amount it originally hoped to move in the first six months of the year.

For some time the CCC has been offering feed wheat at around 89 cents a bushel in the Chicago territory. This has been slightly higher than the price of corn. The law permits sales of wheat as low as 85 per cent of the corn parity price and government agents now are preparing a schedule of prices, set up by counties similar to the corn loan program, which will permit a reduction in feed wheat prices. These reductions will vary according to locality but in Chicago lowering of as much as 5 to 6 per cent is possible.

Efforts to move feed wheat into consumption are being pushed by the CCC because if the need for storage space for the new crop and the general recognition that corn supplies must be conserved. As it now stands the government has left only about 47,000,000 bushels of corn with which it must meet lend-lease export requirements and supply distillers manufacturing industrial alcohol. More than a year ago its supply exceeded 200,000,000 bushels. The CCC recently has stopped offering its corn to industrial users.

Statistics on the feed situation show the feed wheat will be needed, grain men said, if livestock production goals are to be met. Because of greatly increased livestock population, feed supplies for the 1942-43 season which begins soon may be about 10 per cent per animal unit less than in the season drawing to a close. The 1942-43 corn supply is expected to be about 3,100,000,000 bushels, or 200,000,000 smaller than last season.

Gov. Bricker Addresses Lakeside Bible Class

LAKESIDE, O., Aug. 3—In a day when the [illegible] of evil seem to be submerging the defenses [illegible] time for Christians to begin a counter offensive, Gov. Bricker told the Lakeside Bible class Sunday.

There is a call for constructive leadership on the part of the church today that the world has not heard before, and a city [illegible] that can see beyond the night of darkness into the dawn of the peace to come, Gov. Bricker said.

Urging people not to become hardened by the sorrows and stress of war, he said it was the duty of leadership today to keep alive the responsibility of the individual to his fellow man.

Wartime Restrictions On Telephone Installations and Changes

IF YOU PLAN TO MOVE TO NEW QUARTERS—or to change telephone arrangements in your present home, office or other place of business—be sure to check with us on the availability of equipment and possible restrictions. Call the Business Office.

The war has brought restrictions on telephone installations.

We cannot give you a new extension in your home.

We cannot replace your existing equipment except under certain conditions.

WE are still taking applications for new service where facilities are ample. However, we cannot expand our central office equipment or extend our lines without special authorization from the War Production Board. Exhaustion of spare facilities in any locality or section will therefore result in restrictions on new service.

All this is made necessary because vital war materials must be conserved and the Army, the Navy, the defense organizations and others directly engaged in war work must have first call on telephone service.

We feel sure that we will have your complete understanding and wholehearted cooperation. These restrictions are part of the price of winning the war. You may be assured that we will make the best possible use of all telephone facilities available.

All non-essential local and toll calls should be eliminated for the duration. Answer your telephone promptly and please make your conversations brief.

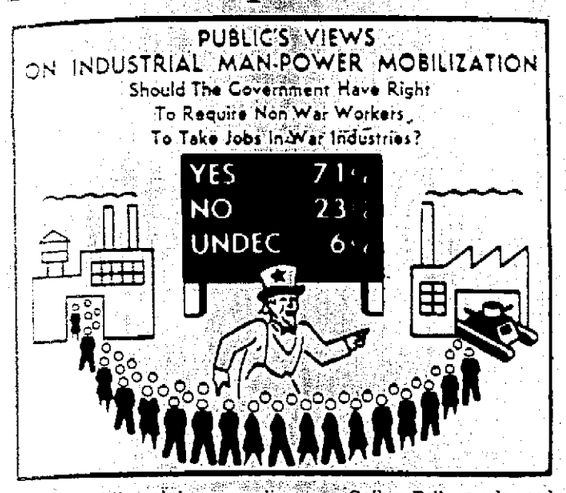
Poll Shows Public Favors Mobilizing Workers To Avoid Manpower Deficit



American public opinion, according to a Gallup Poll, stands ready to give the government power to require workers in non-war industries to take jobs in war factories, and to move them from one job to another if it will help the war effort.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 3—One of the biggest problems in the war effort, a problem which grows more critical every day, is the mobilizing of industrial manpower to insure a steady flow of war production.

If the common people were called upon to decide the problem of how to get the right number of war workers of the proper skills to the right place at the right time, they would grant the government the power to take two fundamental steps.

First, the power to require any worker not now employed in a war industry to take a job in a war factory.

Second, the power to make workers move from one part of the country to another in the interests of war production.

That is the evidence from a nation - wide sampling referendum by the Institute, in which citizens representing a cross-section of the whole nation were interviewed on the problem of industrial manpower.

President Roosevelt this week directed the formulation of a National War Service bill under which all the nation's potential labor power would be mobilized for total war.

Favored by Workers

The granting of the two powers listed above is favored not only by the public in general, but also by the great majority of workers themselves, as the following poll results show.

"Do you think a law should be passed giving the government the right to require workers not employed in war industrial to take jobs in war industries?"

	General Public	All Workers
Yes	71%	72%
No	23	23

"Should a law be passed giving the government the right to require workers to move to any place in the country to take jobs in war industries?"

	General Public	All Workers
Yes	53%	53%
No	39	40

McNutt's Problem

The war manpower problem, stemming from the great demand for skilled labor, is attaining such serious proportions that the government recently had to issue a blast against "labor pirating," warning employers not to try to lure workers away from other factories where they might be needed.

The seriousness of the manpower problem can also be seen by anybody who takes the trouble to study the classified advertisement pages of newspapers in war industry centers. There are columns and columns of "help wanted" ads from factories seeking hundreds or even thousands of skilled workers of all types.

At present the War Manpower Commission under Paul V. McNutt is attempting to head off or to remedy manpower shortages by means of appeals to workers on a purely voluntary basis.

The United States Employment Service, by statutory right, is examining selective service occupational questionnaires. Men listed as working in non-essential industries are interviewed and, if their experience is suitable, are urged to change their jobs to jobs in war industries.

Voluntary Matter

However, when, as is often the case, the worker asks, "Do I have to?" all that the authorities can say at present is "No," since they have no power to make him change.

Often, too, the employer intercedes on behalf of the worker and insists that he must remain where he is.

The result is that only a very small proportion of workers interviewed by the authorities have consented to shift over into war industries.

This naturally raises the question whether such workers are unwilling to cooperate with the government in the interests of national defense.

A careful analysis of their point of view indicates that such is by no means the case.

Workers Ready

In this matter, as in many other matters involving sacrifice for war, the typical American takes the attitude that he is perfectly willing to make sacrifices if he feels that everyone else is also being called upon to make the same or an equivalent sacrifice. In other words, while the worker in a non-essential industry may not be willing to take the initiative himself in changing his job, particularly if he is well satisfied where he is, nevertheless he stands ready to make the change if the law says he must and if others must do it too.

The same attitude prevailed throughout the country at the time the selective service act was passed. Men were not rushing in millions to join the army or the navy of their own initiative, but when the law was adopted requiring everybody to register for the draft, there was virtually no criticism from the people or failure to cooperate with the draft program.

Mobilization Long Favored

In the matter of civilian mobilization it is interesting to note that the common people of the country, who have so often proved themselves ahead of their leaders, were in favor of a compulsory manpower mobilization program for industry so long ago as last March.

In a series of surveys conducted by the Institute at that time, every section of the country voted in favor of a total mobilization program to give the government the right to tell every person in the country what to do in the war effort and require him to do it.

The national vote in favor of total mobilization ran better than two to one.

Heart Stitched, Youth Loses Chance To Live

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Although they had given him a 50-50 chance for recovery, the odds proved too great for the stout heart of Stanley Kolbusz.

Stitched seven times after the 19-year-old Holyoke, Mass., war plant worker was stabbed the night of July 14 by three men who escaped, his heart also had to combat double pneumonia which set in after a rare and delicate operation.

During the operation, Dr. Edward Finestone at Sydenham hospital used Stanley's own blood, caught up in sponges, for a transfusion.

Last night, the overburdened heart ceased beating.

Chandler Has Big Lead Over Foe in Kentucky

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 3—Unofficial returns from more than three-fourths of Kentucky's 4,375 precincts today gave Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler a lead of 66,996 votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination over John Young Brown, Lexington attorney.

Reports from 3,595 precincts show that in Saturday's primary the junior senator received 113,013 votes to 46,017 for Brown. The count, stopped at midnight Saturday, will be resumed today.

In the Republican senatorial primary, Richard J. Colbert of Lexington apparently was named to oppose Chandler in the November general election.

FOWL PARALYSIS
The first rule in prevention of fowl (range) paralysis is sanitation. Neither drugs, tonics, medicines, vaccines, bacterins, nor special feeds have been effective in either preventing or curing this mysterious disease of poultry, according to E. E. Anderson, New Mexico State college.

The disease causes about half of all poultry disease losses and costs poultry raisers millions of dollars annually. Exclude visitors from poultry premises, keep the brooder house clean, dry, and ventilated; avoid overcrowding and overheating, and get the chicks outdoors early. Provide chicks with an adequate, well-balanced diet and clean fresh water.

Don't Be Puzzled About Using Your

CHARGE ACCOUNT

UNDER WARTIME REGULATIONS!

It Is Really Simple and Convenient!

IT IS still easy to enjoy the conveniences of your charge account here at Uhler's, even though the Federal Government has found it necessary to issue certain regulations governing charge accounts in wartime. If you always pay your bills promptly, you will not be one bit effected by the new regulations. Otherwise, only a few restrictoins need be observed. Check below and see how simple it is.

• • • How to keep your account open

The government simply asks, in order to keep your account in use, that you pay your bills by the tenth of the second month after the charge is billed. Therefore, bills for July purchases are rendered August 1st and should be paid in full by September 1st. Account is in "default" if the payment is not made by September 10th.

• • • What happens if you do not pay on time?

Your charge account is not closed if you do not pay your bill by the tenth of the second month. It is only placed in temporary default, during which period no more charges may be made. When this happens, we are required by government regulation to refuse further charges.

• • • What to do if your account is in default

If your account is in "default" you may "cure it" by paying the amount in default in full. Or, you may enter into a written agreement to pay the amount over a period of time and on terms specified by government regulations. During this period we are permitted to open a supplementary account on which you may make charges.

• • • Can you buy on deferred terms?

Yes, definitely. You may buy floor coverings, furs and other large purchases on separate contracts. On these contract accounts, payments may be spread over a liberal period of time or terms specified by the government.

If you have any questions about charge accounts or credit regulations come in and talk with our Credit Department. We will be only too happy to explain the situation personally and to clear up any points that puzzle you.

Sure, it Makes You Mad!

DO YOU REALIZE that thousands of our good American soldiers are behind barbed wire—with Jap sentries marching up and down outside?

Do you know that American women and children, too, are in Jap concentration camps?

How long do you want them there—and what are you willing to do to get them out?

You can't do it by flag-waving, by slogans and by cheers.

It takes planes—tanks—guns—bombs—shells—ships. And these don't grow on trees.

You—and you—and you—must buy these things. Not the Jap way, nor the Nazi way, nor the Fascist way. The American way—freely and gladly. In War Bonds!

The easy way—just by saving a dime from every dollar every payday. TEN PERCENT of your pay. The management of your company will save it for you, and every time it adds up to $18.75, they'll buy a WAR BOND for you.

You'll get interest on that money. It will increase every year, until for every $18.75 you invest, you'll get $25 in ten years.

And your money will buy the stuff to beat the Japs—to attack them—to bomb them, to make them wish to their heathen idols they'd never picked a scrap with Uncle Sam!

And the sooner you do your part, by backing up our boys, the sooner they will blast the Japs right out of their sandals.

Down will come that barbed wire, and out will come your fellow Americans. Home again—to a free, decent, clean country—the country we all love.

And you'll be sitting pretty, too. You'll have the clear conscience of having done your part, and you'll have built up financial protection for you and your family.

So let's get going. Do your part. Ten percent—a dime from every dollar every payday.

Invest your share in VICTORY!

5 Reasons Why

- By investing in War Bonds you help provide the planes, the tanks, the guns and the ships we must have to survive and conquer.
- You prove that you are a patriotic American.
- You aid the morale of our fighting men, by showing them that the entire Nation is behind them.
- You prove to our enemies that we are a United People.
- You protect your own financial future, as every $18.75 you invest in a War Bond brings you back $25 in 10 years. You make the world's safest investment, by buying a share in the world's most powerful country.

How Baldinger Gets Results

PEOPLE of Ohio are watching with interest the vice clean-up under way in Columbus and vicinity but nowhere, excepting Columbus itself, is the interest quite as pronounced as in Marion, for the campaign got its start through the initiative of a former Marion resident. As is generally known by all newspaper readers, the man who set off the fireworks is Lt. Col. Ora M. Baldinger, commandant of the Lockbourne air base, who demanded removal of dives near the base to safeguard the morals and efficiency of the young men under his supervision.

People of Marion and others who have known Col. Baldinger over a long period of years are not surprised to hear of his prompt and vigorous action. It is typical of his personality and ability. Since the earliest days of his youth, when he went out on his own to earn a livelihood and lay the foundation for his career, he has had the faculty of making decisions speedily and to get things done effectively and at the right time. Circumstances which might deter other men of a more timorous nature never cause rough-riding "Red" Baldinger to hesitate or back up. He believes that where obstacles to essential public service exist, the obstacles should be eliminated or hurdled. That is a policy which many local authorities, including some in Marion, might well adopt for the good of their community.

For example, the chief of the Columbus vice squad informed Col. Baldinger that the police department there was handicapped since 128 policemen had been furloughed in order to cut municipal expenses. Baldinger said: "I don't know where you are going to get the money to pay those policemen, but you've got to get them back and you've got to get something to pay them with."

The city health commissioner, speaking in regard to the campaign against prostitutes, said he was not permitted under the law to require clinical examinations for women until they were arrested on specific morals charges. He asserted he could not "stick his neck out against the advice of the legal department." Baldinger's comeback to this was: "We've got to start sticking our necks out. I've been sticking my neck out for the last two years."

And there you have evidence of the way a man of action does things and how he deals with attempts at alibis and excuses from men who take over the responsibility of serving the public. Let's hope that his viewpoint will be adopted by public officials generally throughout Ohio and that more of them will have the courage to "stick their necks out" when performance of duty makes it necessary.

Fish Eggs to You

INDIGNANT remarks are being made in certain quarters because President Roosevelt recently explained in a press conference that caviar is one of the things he has given up for the duration of the war. In this part of the country caviar is something that's read about, usually in connection with fancy doings in high society; it is not something commonly used. But there is a paradox about the costly eggs of the Russian sturgeon.

Among the Communist brethren, if reports may be trusted, salted fish eggs are as common as, say, pot roast—a proletarian staple. In short there's nothing intrinsically snooty about caviar; it's only shipping charges and import duties that make it a symbol of high living in this country. In Russia, if they hear that Mr. Roosevelt is doing without caviar, morale will suffer. It could mean only one thing—that the United States has gone too far with lend-lease and is forced to get along without one of the prime necessities of life.

Recipe for Incendiaries

MANY an air raid warden studying his instructions has twittered restlessly over the lately repealed instructions for controlling an incendiary bomb. There was something intrinsically nerve-wracking about the idea of dealing with that particular device of German barbarism by spraying it gently and hoping it wouldn't disintegrate. The American instinct is to squirt a full stream on it and take the consequences, which couldn't be much worse than the suspense, at that. The American recipe, however, was borrowed outright from the British, because they had had the benefit of experience.

Squirting is the way to do it now, however. The fine spray method has its point, but it is too slow for dealing with more than one bomb at a time. Furthermore, it is based on the theory that the bomb must be allowed to burn itself out, which made no allowance for the persistency of German barbarism. It was hardly to be imagined that the Germans wouldn't see the possibility in time of fixing up their incendiary bombs with an explosive charge that would let go in due course of time to take care of the patient Britishers methodically spraying the accursed things. It is the German way of doing things—never miss a chance to increase the other fellow's risk in wartime. Americans will be a lot more comfortable knowing it's officially all right to squirt water on the things—and duck.

News Behind the News

Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare Suffers Loss of Authority and Personnel.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Vice President Wallace's board of economic warfare seems to be folding up wrongly—the parts that were supposed to open after President Roosevelt dropped them in April.

BEW is certainly not flying as high as it did at the prospectus at the start of the war, when Mr. Wallace and others were saying it would be the big organization of the war and post-war world, superseding WPB and everything else.

Instead, WPB has issued order No. M-63 restricting imports, which rather seems to have put BEW down into strictly an advisory role.

All official WPB and BEW comment on this order is vague. Both claim it had only routine aspects.

Before it was issued, however, Mr. Wallace's group had the power for preclusive buying of foreign products, and for ordering other foreign purchases on its own say-so; now it does not. Import orders are to be issued by WPB.

Inasmuch as State Secretary Hull succeeded in getting out of Mr. Roosevelt, last April 13, an executive order affirming his right over BEW, to handle all foreign affairs of the nation, Mr. Wallace and his little group of planners are now in the position of being free to think but not able to do.

They were supposed to plan out and blueprint the overall policy on economic warfare. (Such as buying up foreign copper before the Nazis could get it.)

Speeches of Mr. Wallace, and his major domo, Milo Perkins, have been bearing down upon the further-reaching problem of making everybody happy after the war by giving them a quart of milk a day, and other things.

Some curtailment in personnel has been noticed in BEW this past month. Only July 1, it had around 2,000 employes. Authorities there say they decided to curtail in the interest of economy, but some of the bright young men who have left say they realized its scope was being limited.

Henderson vs. Davis

The major policy row between Price Fixer Leon Henderson and War Labor Board Chairman William H. Davis reached annoying, but unreported, heights this week.

It seemed to develop aspects of a duel to the death with Henderson convinced there was no sure trying to hold down the cost of living if Davis continues increasing union wages. Mr. Davis feels the same way about it in reverse.

A decision by Mr. Roosevelt is expected before the end of the week.

Brass

Newsmen around the old Victorian state department building got tired of seeing 40 staircases with heavy brass-handled rails when they read news dispatches this week that small arms making plants were closing down for lack of brass.

They petitioned officials to turn it in on the scrap drive but were referred to the public buildings administration, which was supposed to have such matters in charge.

PBA, however, said it was doing nothing about brass stair rails, and was only collecting old plate boilers and unornamental iron.

The old stair rails are still there. Newsmen are considering tying them up with a nice little bow of red tape.

What to Look For

This does not relieve you of your obligation, to get in all the scrap from your house, where there is no red tape. Excellent publicity is promoting national interest in the drive, but nobody seems to be telling citizens exactly what to look for around the house.

See if you have in the attic an iron or brass bed; brass or copper screen, old lamps or lighting fixtures, door knobs, even keys, locks or springs, roller skates, ice skates, sleds, ash-trays, metal vases, old knives, pots and pans, metal fans, electric cords, old porch or garden furniture.

In the cellar, look for old stoves, and irons, pokers, furnace parts, faucets, sinks, garden tools, carpenter tools, any kind of rubber, tennis shoes, garden hose, overshoes.

Texas Primary

The Texas primary result dismayed the White House only privately. Everyone knows an invisible Roosevelt blessing was on Judge Allred, who resigned a federal judgeship on the White House steps to enter the race against Senator O'Daniel.

However, Allred's friends here counseled against the President doing anything openly to aid Allred's cause, as they thought it might cause an unsatisfactory reaction. Consequently, any regrets that Allred was barely able to force O'Daniel into a run-off likewise have been kept confidential.

King Haakon 70 Today

Only Monarch in History Chosen by Popular Election.

Today King Haakon of Norway became 70 years of age. The only monarch in history to be chosen by popular election, he became king of Norway in November, 1905, after the personal union which had united the crowns of Norway and Sweden since 1814 was dissolved and the king of Sweden ceased to be also king of Norway.

King Haakon VII was born Aug. 3, 1872, the second son of King Frederik VIII of Denmark and a brother of the present King Christian. He was married July 22, 1896, to Princess Maud, the third daughter of Edward VII of Great Britain and sister of the late George V. She died Nov. 20, 1938. The heir to the throne, Crown Prince Olav, was born July 2, 1903, and was married on March 21, 1929, to Princess Martha of Sweden, daughter of Prince Charles.

When, as Prince Carl of Denmark, King Haakon was offered the Norwegian throne, he accepted it only on condition that a plebiscite be held to determine whether Norway would be a monarchy or a republic. When the democratic Norwegian people determined by their own free choice to make the ancient Norwegian throne, for centuries held by the Kings of Denmark and Sweden, a symbol of complete Norwegian independence, Prince Carl chose Haakon as his royal name to signify his intention of emulating the medieval Norwegian monarch who has gone down in history as Haakon the Good. As his royal motto he took the simple words: All for Norge—"All for Norway."

It was not easy to be king in as stubbornly democratic a country as Norway but by quiet tact and unfaltering loyalty to the spirit of the Norwegian constitution Haakon VII gradually won the affections and respect of his adopted people. His decisive and courageous action at the time of the German invasion, his utter disregard of his personal safety during the fighting in Norway, and his manly dignity as the leader of his people in exile have today turned his affection and respect into a burning loyalty no king has ever enjoyed in Norway's long and colorful history.

In observance of King Haakon's 70th anniversary the Royal Norwegian Information Services, with offices in New York City, has published an artistically printed book reviewing Haakon's life and Norway's history, with photographic illustrations throughout.

The book bears as its title Haakon's motto, "All for Norway."

This Week in the Sky

DURING THIS week, the observer who wishes to see planets will have to crown his ambition with the willingness to get out of bed while it is still dark, or else find himself up during the "wee sma' hours." Saturn will be visible from about 2 o'clock on. Actually it rises earlier but will have to be well up before it can be clearly seen. Venus and Jupiter are in the morning sky, shining brilliantly only before sunrise.

The moon, with more than usual consideration, will be fading from the sky in order to be dark by the time of the great Perseid meteor shower on the 12th.

In the northern hemisphere there are 48 constellations, the United States of the Sky. It is surprising how easily it is to know them all, once an effort has been made to dig out some of the more obscure ones.

This week will be favorable for observing them, with the moon conveniently out of the way, and no evening planets to complicate the picture. A nice constellation to search for this time in Sagitta, the arrow. It is shaped of four small stars close together and looks like the shaft of an arrow with tail feathers in place, but no head. It can be found in the east, midway between Alberio, the foot of the cross, and Altair, the very bright star in the Eagle Altair, incidentally, is very easily found by looking to the southeast for a first magnitude star (very bright) set between two others not quite so brilliant which flank it on either side.

PUSSY IN THE CORNER

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Aug. 3, 1932.

The Marion county sheriff's office reported one of the strangest cases in its memory when a Marion county farmer on the preceding day returned good for evil after two jobless men were caught stealing corn from his field. The farmer gave the thieves a lecture, loaded them up with sacks of sweetcorn and informed a deputy sheriff that he did not care to file any charges.

Misses Mary Cook, Annabelle Crawford, Virginia Fetter, Jane Starner, Margaret Minoughan and Elnore Zeig, all of Marion, left to spend a week at Rye Beach. Miss Jeanette Evans was to join them later in the week and the party was to be chaperoned by Mrs. A. W. Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hughes and daughter Julia Ann of South Vine street and Mrs. Mary Hecker of Windsor street returned from a two-week vacation at North Shore, Platte Lake, Mich.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Parish of the County Line road north of Marion.

County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, commenting on a statewide survey which showed many local governmental units were failing to observe the budget law, said all phases of the budget regulations were being inforced in Marion county. He said he had just returned a number of incomplete budgets to township and school board clerks for additional information.

Fire destroyed 7,000 bales of hay and straw owned by James DeLong of Green Camp, causing a loss estimated at $4,000.

A 12-year-old Marion boy brought into juvenile court on a charge of stealing a small dress and stockings at a Marion store told court officials the merchandise had been taken because of his ambition to see his 5-year-old sister wear better clothes.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Aug. 3, 1922.

The United States treasury department announced in Washington there could never be a general cancellation of international war debts on a basis of equality among the nations of the world as far as this country was concerned.

Funeral services were set Saturday for Alpha E. Goerlich, widely known farmer who died suddenly at his home on the Green Camp road on Wednesday.

Bombers in Volume

Old Auto Assembly Plant Performing Colossal Service.

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Wide World Correspondent

DETROIT, Aug. 3—In a ramshackle old onetime automobile assembly plant on Detroit's west side, the nation's air warfare program is receiving major impetus as thousands of men and women concentrate on the volume production of vital sections of medium type bomber planes.

And it is volume production. The stream of bomber interior sections that moves along the assembly lines is a seemingly endless one. You couldn't count them unless you measured the length of the line and the space occupied by each section: the line just fades away in the distance and the last object you see is a fuselage assembly.

Product of Genius

This is Chrysler's DeSoto bomber plant. It isn't as large as the Ford Willow Run factory that comes to mind first when people in the nation's motor capital talk about the "bomber plant." But it represents the mass production genius of the converted automobile industry in action.

The plant was in production in less than five months after blueprints were received for the plane sections.

They use an upside down assembly line system in this plant. Overhead mono-rail lines carry not only the interior sections, but also the sub-assemblies that go into them.

It is really the heart of the plane that moves sideways down these assembly lines. As the sections proceed along the assembly routes, various parts are added—the bomb-bay doors in the belly, seats for the navigator and the radio operator, the bombardier's equipment and scores of other items.

Completed planes do not come off these assembly lines, but when the sections reach the shipping decks they are complete in every detail. Through the combined efforts of the hundreds of men and women workers, a complicated maze of cable controls and miles of electric wiring have been installed; ready for use is a two-way radio installation: there is also an "inter-section" telephone system.

Mechanisms Complete

The mechanisms for operating the de-icers, raising and lowering the landing gear, operating the wing flaps, controlling lights and other essential controls are complete when the sections are placed in end-opening freight cars or other vehicles for shipment to other factories for addition of wings, motors and propellers.

The number of interior sections moving off the assembly lines each day and the number of men and women speeding them on their way are military secrets. It may be said, however, that mass production is an established fact at this particular plant.

Water Missing

By The Associated Press

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — The mystery of 8,000 gallons of water and where it went is still puzzling civil engineers at the Pennsylvania State college.

This miniature flood disappeared suddenly from the cistern tank, 10 feet square and 10 feet high, in the hydraulics laboratory in the basement. Containing 15,000 gallons of water, the tank mysteriously became half-empty one night. There seemed to be no possibility of a leak.

Fights Fires

By The Associated Press

LONDON—A fire-fighting "flying column," first of its kind in Britain, has been installed at Croydon. Given five minutes' notice, the column can go anywhere to help a raided town, taking its own pumps, food supplies and sleeping outfits. The column is made up of 150 picked men equipped with 20 pumps.

Similar units are to be established at other large centers.

Pvt. Laemmle

Army Life Has Cured Extreme Case of Hypochondria. Called Hollywood's Worst in Its Day.

By DAMON RUNYON

THE ARMY is without doubt a wonderful institution. It has definitely and permanently cured Pvt. Junior Laemmle's hypochondria, which was once deemed the outstanding case of the kind on the North American continent.

Once at a football game in California, a friend inflated his cheeks and surreptitiously blew his breath on the back of Pvt. Junior Laemmle's neck. Junior got up and hurried home in his reared limousine, saying the stadium was full of drafts and that a man might easily catch his death of cold there.

Of course, Pvt. Junior Laemmle was not a private then. He was a youthful movie tycoon, head of Universal Pictures, heir to the fortune left by his father, Carl Laemmle, and owner of the largest collection of medicines in the country, outside some of the more important drug store chains.

He was even a fugitive from germs. All you had to do to quit winner on Pvt. Junior Laemmle in a gin rummy game was to cough in his lesser when you were ahead and he would hasten away to sterilize himself, leaving you in possession of your spoils. He had as many sprays as the Mayo clinic. His phobia was famous in Hollywood.

I have never credited the story that Pvt. Junior Laemmle used to carry a fellow around with him to taste food set before him to see that it was all right, but I know he was a cautious not to say suspicious eater. He distrusted all restaurant viands as the lurking places of bacteria.

YOU may judge my astonishment then, when in a New York cafe the other evening some of the guests complained that there was something wrong with one of the courses and called on the waiters to make a change. Pvt. Junior Laemmle calmly continued with his portion and said it tasted fine to him. He sat coatless and disdained a suggestion that he switch chairs because he was in a cross-current of air. Then I realized the miracle worked by the army.

"Are you ever sick?" I inquired.

"I should say not," said Pvt. Junior Laemmle. "They give you big pills if you get sick and would rather stay well than take them."

He is in the signal corps attached to an outfit stationed at present on Long Island but which travels around making training pictures for the personnel. These pictures are accounted a valuable course in the education for war of the soldiers. Pvt. Junior Laemmle has been in seven different camps in various parts of the country since he went in the army six months ago.

IT WILL probably astonish his Hollywood friends to learn that he is enjoying the life immensely. His nickname wherever he goes is "Shorty," which was varied to "The Giant" in a Carolina camp. He is hoping that his outfit gets sent overseas soon and his preference is Australia.

"That's one place I've never been," said Pvt. Junior Laemmle.

His job with the unit is to lug apparatus, help with the cameras and make himself generally useful. He has lost 10 or 12 pounds in weight and looks half his 34 years in his trim uniform. His characteristic grin is broader than ever. He rejoices in his status as private, claiming that it makes him distinctive among members of the Hollywood colony who have become commissioned officers.

Tragedy entered his soldier life last week-end. He was hoping for a pass to see the last day of racing at Empire and he had polished himself and his accoutrement up to the fineness of the hair on a cat's back, as it seems that perfection in that respect is a requisite for leave in his outfit. He forgot, however, to wipe the woodwork around his bunk, and that was the first place the inspecting officer poked a finger. No pass.

"I had a couple of hot tips, too," said Pvt. Junior Laemmle.

First in Typewriters

AN APPARENTLY frantic appeal from the army and navy for 500,000 second-hand typewriters may upset the public. The public does not have reliable statistics on this country's comparative strength in typewriters.

It knows the Germans are supposed to have more first line planes, that the Japanese have more aircraft carriers and so on. Statistics on medium tanks and anti-aircraft guns are reasonably reliable.

But until it knows how its bureaucrats stack up with the bureaucrats of enemy powers in typewriter armament, the picture will be scrawled in longhand, so to speak. If the United States is 500,000 typewriters short of the combined Axis strength, then this defect must be overcome. The war must not be lost for want of a sturdy desk model to write forms in quadruplicate, which is apparently one place where America really shines.

The first successful American beet sugar factory was established by E. H. Dyer in Alvarado, Calif., in 1879.

Up to June 1 the United States had shipped 1,500,000 pounds of dehydrated vegetables under lease-lend.

The Dominican Republic occupies two-thirds of the island of Hispaniola, Haiti occupies the other third.

Cuba has sold practically all her 1942 sugar output of 4,100,000 long tons to the United States Defense Supplies Corp.

Alexandria's harbor became a gateway to the East when Alexander the Great founded the city in 332 B. C.

The first settlement in Alaska was made by the Russians at Three Saints on Kodiak island in 1784. In 1799, the trade and regulation of the Russian possessions in America were turned over to the Russian-American company, under a 20-year concession, which was renewed periodically, giving it absolute domination of everything for 67 years.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

CHAPTER 40
All Together

HESTOR turned and started for the hall. "I'll get my things."

Murdock went over to Nason. "Coming?"

Certainly not."

Fenner edged up beside Murdock. "Should he?"

"I think so."

"So do I." Fenner moved a little closer to Nason, who backed up a half step. "We've decided you'd better come, too," Fenner said.

He hesitated, smiling a little, his voice neither aggressive or blustering but quiet and slow spoken. The threat was all in his eyes and his smile meant nothing.

"I have an appointment," Nason said.

Fenner neither moved nor spoke. Nason met that flinty gaze for some seconds and a flush crept upward from his throat. In the end he looked away and spread his hands, palms up.

"That's fine," said Fenner. "We appreciate it."

"Very well. It's quite preposterous you know, but—"

"Sure," Fenner said. "We know."

Murdock and Hestor rode with Nason and Fenner drove his own car following closely until they came to the traffic light at Kenmore Square. Here he pulled up along side and stuck his head out of the window.

"Look," he said. "Maybe a drink would help, huh? There're a couple of places down the avenue a ways. Any of 'em are okay."

Murdock eyed him disgustedly and nudged Nason. "Go ahead," he said.

When they got out at Ward Allen's place they waited for Fenner. He shook his head at them. They went up the stairs. It was an old brownstone front which had been remodeled into small, modern apartments, and Ward Allen's quarters were on the second floor. Murdock knocked. When there was no answer he knocked again.

"I hate you for this!"

Murdock turned. Hestor was right beside him, her mouth curved bitterly.

"My, my," said Fenner, and then the door swung open.

Hestor moved her shoulders, put her chin and stepped ahead, Nason following and Murdock and Fenner going in almost together.

Surprise

The room they entered was large and high-ceilinged and the door opened directly into it. The furniture was comfortable-looking but well worn, masculine in character except for the small couch along one wall. This, while upholstered in some rough fabric, was modeled on the lines of a love seat, and it was here that Delia Stewart and Dean Thorndike were sitting. Joyce had a corner chair and Ward Allen was standing in the center of the room.

Hestor stopped in front of him, taking in the others with a quick, moving glance. Nason stayed with her. Murdock and Fenner took two or three steps, then, as though by some pre-arranged signal they both stopped and wheeled about.

Even then it seemed to Murdock that Fenner had acted a fraction of a second before he did, and he wondered if the detective's reaction was swifter than his own or whether he himself had been so tardy at grasping the significance of finding these four people waiting for them. Whatever the reason it was not until the moment that he asked himself who had opened the door that he knew that someone else was here.

Don Raeburn was closing the door when Murdock saw that he had apparently kept well behind it until they were all in.

That there had been no warning from the others was explained by the compact little Mauser he held in his right hand.

The tension hit Murdock all of a sudden and he was aware only of Raeburn and that automatic until the door had closed then he realized that something had happened to Jack Fenner, and looked at him.

The detective was standing beside him poised and alert. His thin mouth was mirthful and his eyes were cold and sleepy-looking.

"Well," he said. "Surprise, huh?" He spoke to Murdock without looking at him. "Jack Raeburn?"

"Don't," Hestor said.

Her cry made Fenner turn. "You'd better sit down," he said. "You, too, Nason."

Raeburn had leaned back against the door, the gun steady in his hand.

"That is good advice. May I suggest that you two gentlemen follow it as well?"

Fenner's topcoat was open. He had his hat in one hand and with the other casually flipped out one side of the coat by putting one fist on his hip.

"Put it down, fella," he said.

"Stay where you are," Raeburn said. "I should not like to shoot with all these people here."

Fenner took a slow forward step. "You're not going to shoot."

"Easy, Jack," Murdock said.

Joyce Murdock came forward in her chair. She remembered all those things Kent had told her about Jack Fenner and knew that they were so. His jaw was like a rock and his upward-slanting eyes were thin and mean.

"No, Jack," she said. "Please."

Fenner moved again. Raeburn called to him, but the detective kept coming slowly, with short, shuffling steps. He was scarcely six feet away now and Raeburn set his lips. His fingers tightened. Then the gun roared and jumped upward in his hand.

Fenner stopped. For another second his eyes remained fixed and he made no visible reaction, then he took his fist from his hip and held up the tail of his coat, inspecting it carefully until he found a hole in it. He put his finger through it and looked back at Raeburn.

"Called me bluff," he said. "And this coat set me back seventy-five bucks."

The next time, said Raeburn, it will be you.

Murdock broke the spell that gripped him and took Fenner's arm. "Sit down, will you? I want to hear what he's got to say," he turned and went over to Joyce.

She looked up, seeing the grayness and censure in her eyes.

"I couldn't help it," she said. "I asked you to keep out of this."

"I know, Kent. But I really was coming here to see Ward and Della, just as I told you on the telephone. But he—she glanced at Raeburn—was waiting for me. I got in the car—"

"There was nothing else she could do," Raeburn said.

Murdock looked at him and then let his eyes touch the others in the room. They all watched Raeburn with varying degrees of uncertainty and alarm, all except Fenner. Murdock sat on the arm of Joyce's chair and waited.

"I've gone through a lot of trouble," Raeburn said, "and much unpleasantness since I left San Rufia. I was desperate this morning. I got the idea that I must get Mrs. Murdock out of the way—a stupid idea, I must admit. She convinced me of it although at the time I thought that if I could hide her some place so that she could not identify me I might be able to finish my job."

"What job?" Murdock asked. "Perry Clarke had some papers I wanted them."

"You had them," Murdock said. "You mean that envelope? You got it from Delia."

HOME LOAN OFFICE INTERIOR REMODELED

Work Completed at S. Main St. Location.

Remodeling of the interior of the home owners' loan & loan association offices at 138 South Main street was completed this week.

The remodeling added approximately 400 square feet of floor space which was formerly part of the basement. The offices are now located at the ground floor level of the building. The center counter, occupying the site of a former stairway, was built two years ago. It has been extended about three feet of the top, and a new writing desk has been added.

Other improvements included painting of the entire interior in green, and the installation of fluorescent lighting fixtures. Jos. Wedel, director of the association, said the improvements are part of an extensive program to be completed after the war. A new floor, relocation of walls and separation of the board room and offices from the rest of the offices will be a part of the program.

Marion Canteen Workers Enlist Public Aid To Keep Soldier Treats on Hand

Donations of Money and Various Forms of Treats Needed Since Group Has No Regular Source of Funds.

The approximately 275 women who make up the various teams at the canteen for service men at the Union station are dividing their time these days between the canteen and a campaign to provide funds to carry on the work. Mrs. O. G. Stephenson of 488 South Vine street is chairman of the campaign and she is being assisted by the majors, Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz, Mrs. George Aiber, Mrs. Robert C. Owens, Mrs. A. G. Birch and Mrs. Ray Sutton. Mrs. Eugene B. Willey is head of the canteen workers.

"On Its Own"

The canteen is "on its own" which means that it will be financed only by voluntary contributions from interested organizations and individuals. However, since the campaign was started only a short time ago the response has been generous and the women feel that everyone is interested and will continue to support the movement here. Boxes placed on cigar counters for contributions of cigarets, candy bars and chewing gum have netted donations for the refreshment baskets and glass cans for contributions of money placed in the business places look as though the public remembers.

The canteen belongs to the county, not just Marion city, Mrs. Stephenson declared in discussing the campaign. Persons in the country and in towns in the community who wish to make contributions of money, candy, popcorn and fruit will be more than welcome at the canteen.

Organizations and individuals have been generous in their support of the work and the interest is increasing. More than 300 packages of cigarets and candy have been contributed at the various places since the boxes were placed. Also there have been contributions of sales tax stamps, and now, since the fat salvage has started, there have been several contributions of fat which will be sold to help swell the treasury.

Various Groups Assist

Groups contributing include Labor unions, industrial plants, service clubs, lodges, patriotic organizations, church groups, social clubs and individuals. Recently a soldier who received refreshments at the canteen gave the worker a dollar which she accepted reluctantly only after he explained that he would like to help with such a worthwhile work, and Thursday, after the women had distributed refreshments to the local men entraining for camp three men called at the canteen to contribute a dollar each.

Everyone is willing to help and the women are most appreciative. Letters and cards, plus the verbal appreciation expressed by the soldiers prove how much the "remembering" means to the men and more than repay the women and contributors for anything that is done or given, the canteen workers say.

Gives Car To Scrap Drive, Gets $120 Garage Bill

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3 — After the war production board asked Mrs. Joseph Bauknecht of Cleveland if she would donate her automobile for scrap, a garage in suburban Shaker Heights presented her with a $120 storage bill.

All this was very confusing to Mrs. Bauknecht, who had not heard of her car since she reported it stolen about a year ago.

Investigation of records in the suburb showed the car had been recovered three days after being reported stolen, but no one had notified Mrs. Bauknecht.

The storage bill has been reduced to $10, but Mrs. Bauknecht still has not made up her mind what to do.

Social Affairs

A BRIDE-ELECT, Miss Martha Jane Van Atta, and a bride of last June, Mrs Robert Weigand, were honored with social affairs over the week-end. Miss Betty Moore of Cleveland and her sister Miss Marjory Moore entertained with a tea yesterday afternoon at their home at 265 Bellefontaine avenue for the pleasure of Miss Van Atta whose marriage to Robert Minard of the U. S. navy will take place Sept. 4. Blue and white Miss Van Atta's wedding colors predominated in the appointments, and summer flowers in tones of blue carried out a decorative theme. The guests, who made up the Sur-Dee club only a few years ago, presented her with shower gifts. Mrs. Frank Purdy of Cincinnati was an out-of-town guest.

Saturday evening Miss Van Atta shared honors with Mrs. Weigand, formerly Miss Velma Weimer, when Mrs. Purdy entertained with a double shower at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. A. Ammann of 491 Delaware avenue. Original verses directed the honor guests to the shower gifts and later the evening was spent socially.

Catholic Nurses Meet at Upper Sandusky Park

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Aug. 3—Upper Sandusky members were hostesses when the Toledo Diocesan Council of Catholic nurses of the Tiffin deanery met for a picnic at Harrison Smith park here.

After supper the group moved to the parochial school hall where Rev. William J. McKeown, pastor of the local St. Peter's parish spoke on the profession of nursing. He also presented colored films taken on a trip to Europe several years ago.

Miss Celestine Steger of Tiffin gave a short talk. Entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Arthur Stelert, Miss Hilda Rall and Miss Marie Hensel of Upper Sandusky.

Miss McCoy And Ralph Workman Wed at Richwood

THE home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McCoy of Richwood was the scene of the marriage of their daughter, Gertrude Ellen of Columbus to Ralph W. Workman of Mt. Vernon, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was read by Rev. Glen Hunter, pastor of the First Methodist church of Hillsboro, assisted by Rev. Charles B. Cramer who officiated at the wedding of the bride's parents.

The bride's gown of ivory satin was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The skirt fell from a tight-fitted bodice and extended into a court train. Completing her costume was a hand-embroidered mantilla made in Spain 120 years ago and purchased by Miss Elsie McCoy, aunt of the bride, in Madrid in 1925. It once belonged to a family of the Spanish nobility and has been worn as a bridal veil at three previous weddings. Her only jewelry was a necklace of carved mother-of-pearl, which she brought from Bethlehem, Palestine some time ago, and her shower bouquet was of white orchids, gypsophila and stephanotis.

Miss Margaret B. McCoy of Wilmington, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of flower pink tulle styled with short sleeves, sweetheart neckline, a fitted bodice and very full skirt trimmed with tulle ruching. Her shower bouquet held pink roses, blue delphinium and gypsophila and she wore a cluster of the same flowers in her hair.

Sue Wonder, daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Garrett E. Wonder of Upper Sandusky, was the flower girl. She wore a white ruffled tulle frock and carried a basket of roses.

Mrs. McCoy chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of blue marquisette and lace and her flowers were a corsage of pink rosebuds and gypsophila. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in pastel blue and wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds and gypsophila.

Charles Wonder of Columbus served as best man for Mr. Workman.

The ceremony was read before an improvised altar formed of palms and ferns, baskets of white gladioli and seven-branch candelabra. Aaron Durnell, accompanied by Mrs. Durnell, sang preceding the ceremony. A reception for 120 guests followed.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a taupe jacket suit with turf accessories. They will be at home in Mt. Vernon after Sept. 1.

The bride was educated at Wilmington college and Ohio State university. She taught in Ramallah, Palestine and Ambach, Germany, and more recently has been a member of the faculty of the Upper Arlington schools in Columbus. Mr. Workman is an alumnus of Ohio State university where he affiliated with Delta Sigma Pi fraternity, and attended Harvard Business School. He is associated with the Cooper-Bessemer Co. of Mt. Vernon.

Here is how United States manpower will be tapped under the new selective service set-up. Figures in black circles indicate the order in which men will be called from the seven categories. The general policy, though not ironclad, is to call married men only after the supply of single men has been exhausted, but local circumstances may vary. Three points emphasized are: (1) Married men are not eligible for deferment unless married before Dec. 8, 1941, and at a time when induction was not imminent; (2) the new directive does not mean a cut-off on induction of married men—many already had been classified 1A and most of these definitely will go into the army; (3) local boards still must pass on the bona fide financial dependency of wife and children.

AMERICAN ATTACKED IN ARGENTINE CAPITAL

Waldo Frank Beaten After Ordered To Leave.

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 3—The painful beating which six assailants dealt to Waldo Frank within 24 hours after the Argentine government had pronounced the United States writer and lecturer unwelcome in this country threatened to provoke a political aftermath.

Deputy Eduardo Aruajo said he would offer a motion in the lower house demanding that the government explain what means it took to protect the 53-year-old publicist after its declaration Saturday that he had become persona non grata.

Frank was attacked yesterday in the apartment where he had lived since he came to Argentina 11 weeks ago at the invitation of various universities and cultural societies.

Dr. William R. Giles, Frank's physician, said he suffered a brain concussion of deep severity.

The foreign ministry had ruled Frank no longer welcome after local newspapers published a letter in which he said there was "confusion, discontent and discouragement not far from consternation" everywhere in Argentina.

Police Chief Domingo Martinez however, quickly visited Frank to express official regrets and the press interpreted this as demonstrating that high Argentina authorities had been profoundly moved by the brutal attack.

Bethlehem Grange To Purchase Service Flag

Plans were made to purchase a service flag for Bethlehem grange at a meeting of the members Thursday night. Miss Marie Bender, Miss Florence Almendinger and Robert Rice were named a committee to purchase the flag.

"Harvest Time" was the program theme with Robert Rice, lecturer, presiding. A song by the grange was followed by roll call, the members naming a product of grain. Miss Florence Almendinger and Walter Bender accompanied by Mrs. Robert Rice at the piano, sang a duet with a tableaux pantomimes by a group of young women of the grange. The theme was in keeping with the harvest season. Oscar Kaleber discussed farm labor unions. In a guessing contest the award was won by Miss Mary Mansfey and the program closed with a duet by Miss Almendinger and Mr. Bender.

The social hour was an ice cream "freeze" arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kaelber and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rice. In two weeks the program theme will be conservation and preservation.

S. naval reserves. He will accompany his parents home for an eight-day furlough before going to the naval training base at Norfolk, Va., for further schooling. He has been assigned to the engineering corps.

INDIAN POLITICAL SITUATION CRITICAL

Gandhi Again Warns British To Give In.

By The Associated Press

BOMBAY, Aug. 3—The political situation in India took an ominous turn today as Mohandas K. Gandhi warned that British failure to heed Indian demands for independence would cause discontented elements to welcome a Japanese invasion.

The little Nationalist leader, writing in his newspaper Harijan, expressed the personal opinion that such a development would be "a calamity of the first magnitude" which he said the British government should avoid by giving in at once.

(The British Broadcasting Corporation, meanwhile, reported that Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar, Indian representative in the imperial war cabinet, would leave shortly for London to take his place in the councils of the United Nations.)

Gandhi added that the "chorus of indignation" from Britain and the United States would not deter his own projected campaign of non-violent opposition to British rule, on which the All-India Congress party is expected to reach a final decision Friday.

Political observers have little doubt that the congress will indorse Gandhi's program.

Conservation Note

H. G. Roest of 212 Elm street knew how to conserve tires and gasoline long before the government put restrictions on them, to say nothing of conserving cash. When he was principal of Fort Recovery High school in Mercer county, at the beginning of summer vacation, he decided to visit his mother in Michigan. He started hitch-hiking with a five-cent piece in his pocket, visited a while with his mother and returned home with the same nickel in his pocket.

Almost Buried Alive

The Star almost had a headline "Man Buried Alive," the other evening.

Oscar Lusch, known to everybody who visits the second floor at Uhler's department store, was the victim.

What happened to him has happened at least once in the life of anyone who has dealt in ready-to-wear merchandise for any length of time, according to those who should know.

It seems he was working in the stockroom, going over racks of winter coats. A rack with some 50 heavy winter clothes toppled over on him and pulled with it a rack with about 30 fur coats.

Buried beneath coats, he emitted a few faint cries for help, not wanting to cry out loud and disturb the entire floor, and then began to fight his way out from under the avalanche.

When he finally emerged the always impeccably groomed Mr. Lusch was a sight to behold . . . mussed up and lint from head to toe. He sneaked into the workroom and did the best that could be done in the way of brushing off his suit, straightening his tie and combing his hair, but there were still bits of lint on his suit when he emerged once more on the floor that told the employes something had happened.

His sense of humor got the better of him and he had to tell the story. Asked if he had made any comment when he finally extricated himself from the coats he admitted to a few choice expressions which wound up with "that's one that was too fast for me!"

Latest recipient of such favors was Miss Mary Gracely, who recently left for California to spend the rest of the summer.

PUBLICATION RESUMED BY PITTSBURGH PRESS

Drivers' Strike Causes Five-Day Suspension.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3—The Pittsburgh Press resumes publication today following settlement of labor disputes which kept the newspapers presses idle for five days.

The management of the Scripps-Howard newspaper announced last night that AFL printing craftsmen had consented to return to work pending further action on their demand for pay during a three-day strike of AFL delivery truck drivers.

The truck drivers struck last Wednesday in protest against dismissal of 14 drivers, but agreed Friday to accept the dismissals and go back to their jobs.

E. T. Leech, editor of the Press, previously had said the dismissal of the 14 drivers was necessitated by a government war order limiting the newspaper to three editions daily and reducing truck mileage by 25 per cent. In settling the strike, the newspaper delivery truck drivers union said the 14 would be given work under an arrangements whereby the 70 other drivers would take off one day a week.

Ordnance Plant Workers Strike at West Virginia

By The Associated Press

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., Aug. 3 — A large number of workmen — estimated by some sources as high as 4,000—quit work today at the huge West Virginia ordnance works the government is building on a 8,000-acre site in Mason county.

Lieut. James Raber, public relations officer, said the men walked out in support of demands for higher wages. He stated he did not know how many men had left their jobs, but he said he believed the estimate of 4,000 was far too high.

Raber said also that "the strange thing about it is that we have been unable to find a spokesman for the men." He added "apparently none of the union leaders wants to assume responsibility for the walkout."

Officials of the E. B. Badger and Sons Co., which holds the general construction contract, declined to discuss the walkout.

Now Is No Time To Question Our Allies' Motives

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Viscountess Astor, America's contribution to the British house of commons, sounded a rather sour note when she remarked in a speech that she is "grateful to the Russians, but they are not fighting for us. They are fighting for themselves."

Having been acquainted with Lady Nancy for many years, I'm confident that she had no intention of damaging allied unity. However, one of her outstanding characteristics is that she gives a loose rein to a frequently brilliant but often caustic and indiscreet tongue. Certainly her comment was ill-chosen at a moment when the Bolshevists are standing between the allies and a catastrophe which might mean total defeat for us.

Britain Also for Britain

Of course the Russians are fighting for Russia. So is Britain fighting for Britain, and America for America, in this conflict for survival. It would be a most unhappy circumstance, though, if this were the only viewpoint from which we could consider the alliance that is battling the axis which would destroy us.

Surely we haven't reached the point where it's every man for himself in this crisis. If we are to have the strength and inspiration to fight this thing through to the new world which we envisage, it must be one for all and all for one. So, in the broad sense, the Russians are fighting for us and we are fighting for them—and it's grand to feel that this is so.

It isn't difficult to see what may have been in Lady Astor's mind. Communism has been a thorn in England's side ever since the ism was born and the Bolshevists set out to try to Sovietize that country. A good many Britons therefore regard Moscow with stern suspicion. The situation has been somewhat similar in this country.

But most statesmen seem to have arrived at the conclusion that it isn't necessary for allied countries to accept the political doctrine of Communism in order to make a perfect war alliance with Russia.

Motive Not Important

We don't do ourselves or our cause any good, by adopting the cynical viewpoint that the Russians are fighting only to save their own skins. Whatever their motive, they have been dying by hundreds of thousands to defeat an enemy who not only is trying to destroy them but to destroy Britain and America and the rest of the allies as well.

This is a particularly unhappy moment for invidious remarks, when the Reds are calling for the establishment of a second front to ease their terrific burden. To tell them that they aren't fighting for us must make them wonder whether there's a tendency on the part of the allies to give them a stone when they ask for bread.

Still, the experienced minds in Moscow will understand that their allies will provide that second front as soon as it is feasible, and will provide help for Russia just as eagerly as they would for their own people. The allied leadership has made it clear that we don't intend to let somebody else fight our war for us. So far as we're concerned it's one for all and all for one in this show.

Waldo in a hayfield. At the time of the attack he had been working for a farmer near Big Island, his native community.

His arrest was made about 2:30 yesterday. Within three hours he had given a confession, police said. He told authorities he had attended school only a short time and was unable to read or write. Authorities took down the statement he had given them, read it back to him and he signed it with an X.

Present when the confession was taken were Prosecutor Reed, Capt. Mackan and Patrolmen Kirts and Obenour.

Police said they had been checking constantly on the case since the time of the attack, and that Cramner was one of a number of suspects whose movements had been watched. They said there had been no recent developments to connect him with the case.

Pioneer Farm Family Still Cards Own Wool

There are some families left, the department of agriculture reports, who shear, card and spin wool from their own sheep in pioneer fashion. The Kollmans are an example.

George F. Kollman runs the Mission ranch in an isolated section of Montana. The nearest trading point is Hays, in the Fort Belknap Indian reservation. Thrown largely on their own resources, the Kollmans have revived many practices of covered-wagon days.

With homespun yarn, Mrs. Kollman knits all the socks, mittens, sweaters, mufflers and caps her family needs for cold Montana winters. Rancher Kollman wears a suit made from wool grown on the backs of Kollman sheep and sent to a manufacturer to weave.

Kollman, now an FSA borrower, once operated a store. He says that now he does not mind getting to a store only two or three times a year. Mrs. Kollman cans and preserves home-grown meats and vegetables, makes butter, and is in charge of the family poultry and egg supply.

PROPAGANDA IS TOPIC OF RADIO BROADCAST

O. S. U. Instructor Interviewed at WMRN.

Alan F. Griffin, instructor in social-science at Ohio State university, discussed propaganda on the Marion Community forum weekly broadcast yesterday afternoon from Station WMRN.

Mr. Griffin, author and educator, said propaganda is a use of words to move people along the course of action desired by the user, without regard to whether the user has presented a complete picture of his cause or only that side which will get the desired reaction.

The discussion was in an extemporaneous interview conducted by Miss Hallie Houck of The Star staff. Miss Philomen Gregg of the forum board opened and closed the program.

FORMER RESIDENT OF COUNTY KILLED

Mrs. Rosella Hudson Victim of Accident Near Toledo.

Relatives here have returned from Toledo where Saturday they attended the funeral of Mrs Rosella Hudson, 64, wife of Edwin Hudson of that city, who died Wednesday in Mercy hospital of head injuries suffered in a three-car automobile accident Tuesday night. She was thrown from the car driven by her husband, suffered a skull injury and died without regaining consciousness.

Money amounting to $225, missing from Mrs. Hudson's purse after the accident, later was returned to Mr. Hudson by police, following the arrest of a 31-year-old woman, arrested on suspicion after the officers learned she was at the scene of the accident. She told the detectives she found the money tied in a handkerchief and tried to find the owner. She was released after questioning and the money was given to Mr. Hudson.

Mrs. Hudson was born east of Agosta to Albert and Sophia Kiest Boblenz, natives of Germany. Surviving with the husband are two sons, William T. and Marion J. Hudson, a daughter, Mrs. Beatrice O. Myrice all of Toledo; a brother, Albert Boblenz living east of Agosta, and three sisters, Mrs. Nettie Haberman of East George street, Mrs. Caroline Reiselt of West Columbia street and Mrs. Florence McClelland of Olney avenue. Seven grandchildren also survive. Mrs. Hudson was a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Toledo.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a. m. Saturday at the Bernard L. Day mortuary and burial was made in Toledo Memorial park.

Attending the services were Mr and Mrs. R. C. McClelland, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Reiselt, Mr. and Mrs George Bechtle of Marion and Richard Boblenz of Columbus.

MRS. SARAH RHEY DIES AT HOME IN MOGADORE

Former Wyandot Co. Woman Mother of Marion Residents.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Aug. 3—Mrs. Sarah Margaret Rhey, 76, died at the home of her son, Willard Rhey, in Mogadore, Summit county, Sunday.

Mrs. Rhey was born Feb. 3, 1866 in Buffalo, W. Va. Her marriage was to Milton Rhey in Buffalo Dec. 25, 1881. She had resided in Upper Sandusky for 28 years until she went to live with her son nine months ago. She was a member of the Methodist church and of the American Legion auxiliary in Upper Sandusky.

Surviving besides Willard Rhey are two daughters, Mrs. George Leedom of 870 Henry street and Miss Della Rhey of 390 West Columbia street, Marion, and a son, Frank Rhey of Gary, Ind., and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral will be tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Lucas Funeral home in Upper Sandusky with burial in the Old Mission cemetery.

KEEP IODINE HANDY

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA — Every householder should keep a seven per cent tincture of iodine solution in his blackout room first-aid kit, defense authorities advise. It not only sterilizes wounds, but a single drop will purify a glass of water. That's a big point in case an air raid damages the water supply.

LOSS OF 9 VESSELS BOOSTS TOLL TO 408

Two Women Among Eight Dead in Latest Sinking.

By The Associated Press

Nine ships announced last week to have been sunk by submarines in the western Atlantic and another victim disclosed yesterday brought to 408 today the Associated Press unofficial tabulation of allied and neutral wartime merchant losses in the area.

The latest announced sinking was that of a medium-sized Russian cargo carrier July 4 in the Gulf of Mexico.

Two women were among eight persons killed when the Soviet vessel went down. These were a stewardess and woman dishwasher.

Three American ships, two Brazilian, one British, one Mexican, one Panan man and one Nicaraguan were included in last week's sinking announcements.

Four of these went down off the U. S. east coast making that area's war total 186; three off South America made a total of 28 in those waters and one each off Canada and in the Gulf of Mexico boosted those figures to 41 and 38, respectively. No reported Caribbean sinkings left the toll there at 137.

LIGHTNING FIRE AT FARM NEAR PROSPECT

House Damaged but Firemen Save Most of Structure.

Special to The Star

PROSPECT, Aug. 3—Lightning started a fire which caused considerable damage to one side of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller of the Hoskins road southwest of here. Lightning struck a tree near the house and ignited the siding on the upper part of the house about 11:30 a. m. Sunday.

The fire smouldered on the inside of the siding, filling the house with so much smoke that it was impossible to reach the fire from the inside. The Almendinger combination fire fighter and wrecker was called, and the siding was torn from the upper portion of the house. The fire was extinguished before the flames caused much damage to the interior.

Everything was removed from the house except the contents of an upstairs storage room in which the smoke was the thickest.

The house is owned by Earl Beers who moved from north of Marion this spring to a farm adjoining the Miller home.

Elwood Almendinger, Harold Osborn, Robert Gabriel and Murray Court accompanied the fire fighter. Farmers who assisted included Mr. Beers, Elva Beaver, Darwin Bell, Jerry Davis and Dwight Miley. The damage is covered by insurance.

RUSSIA

back to their original positions."

The Germans were dropping parachutists in some key regions across the Don and in addition the Russians reported finding Nazi spies by the dozen operating in that area. Forty-five were executed in one sector.

Presumably these were fifth columnists. It was not clear immediately from what group of the Soviet peoples they had been recruited. However, large German settlements had developed before the war in the German Volga area, a large section some 150 miles north and northeast of Stalingrad. Germans in this area were understood to have been rounded up and moved back from the potential battle area soon after the war started.

Moscow newspapers gave increasing space to demands for a second front to ease the strain on the Red army. The Communist party newspaper Pravda, declaring that "the danger in the south is more acute," said "the enemy is draining Germany and German-occupied countries to send all reserves into the fight."

British military quarters said in London that sixteen Nazi divisions had been transferred from France and the low countries to the Russian front, but added that this did not necessarily indicate a weakening of Germany's defenses to the west since the transferred troops had been replaced by other units.

Estimate Nazi's Strength

These sources estimated that the Germans now have about 26 divisions (260,000 to 390,000 men) in France, Belgium and the Netherlands, exclusive of the troops in Norway.

In the air war across the English channel, one northeastern English coast town was raided by daylight after German bombers made scattered overnight attacks on the industrial midlands and East Anglia.

Unfavorable weather over the continent interrupted the RAF's pounding of Germany, Spitfires attacking railway targets and barges in the low countries yesterday, however, after another fight between British and German torpedo boats off Cherbourg. The British said they raced in under the harbor defenses, sank two German boats and got away while the Nazis fired upon their own craft in the excitement.

On the Egyptian front, land operations were limited to patrol skirmishes and artillery fire but, overhead, allied fighters and bombers kept up their steady bombing and machinegunning of the axis communications and bases of supply.

SUB BUILDER TO GIVE SOLUTION TO MENACE

Simon Lake To Appear Before Committee.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Simon Lake, veteran submarine designer and builder, promised to lay before a senate military subcommittee today the solution of the U-boat menace.

Lake, who said he had been called before a committee that has been seeking to step up production of aerial fighters, declared that as one of the inventors of the modern submarine he knew "what the axis nations can do with it."

"For 30 years," he said, "I have warned that battleships, cruisers, destroyers, patrol boats of any kind, even airplanes, could not effectively stop its destructive toll of ships, their crews and cargoes.

"I say now that we have not yet seen the full fury of the submarines such as will probably descend upon us in the days to come.

"I have refrained from making public some of my plans, fearing our enemies would use them against us, but from information recently received and from evidence of enemy operations they are apparently using these methods and are planning to use them even more extensively. I feel the time has come to tell our people about them."

FIREBOAT

they are completed to safeguard Uncle Sam's wharves and docks. Where they will be used is a matter the coast guard doesn't care to disclose, but even a casual spectator can see how valuable the boats would be in cases of fires or air raids around any military waterfront.

The boat is about 30 feet long and can carry a number of people in addition to the heavy-duty pumping equipment that both propels the boat and pumps water for fire-fighting purposes. The method of propulsion is an idea that Hanley developed several years ago. Since there is no propeller, the boat can travel through floating debris without danger of fouling the mechanism, and this feature also permits the boat to operate in only 10 inches of water, enabling it to go places where conventional fire tugs can not reach.

Hanley, his wife and several others who have worked to speed the launching of the first boat didn't get to bed at all Saturday night — not until late Sunday when the boat had fully proven its ability did they take time out for rest.

Launching Plans Spoiled

Even in the rush, Mrs. Hanley decided the boat ought to be launched with appropriate ceremony, so she fixed up a decorated bottle of soda water—in lieu of champagne—and put on a nice, fluffy white dress in preparation for the ceremony which she hoped to work into the busy launching program. Her plans were spoiled when the bottle of soda water exploded in her hands shortly before the launching, not only ruining the bottle but soaking her with its contents. She didn't take time to change clothes, however, and had a shrinking dress to contend with during the busy launching period.

Several times during the try-out runs two nozzles were pointed into the air and huge streams of water poured from them. The boats are rated as being capable of throwing 2,000 gallons of water a minute—the equivalent of two average size pumper trucks.

With the experience of building the first boat to guide them, Hanley and his employes today turned both to the task of putting the finishing touches on the No. 1 boat and starting construction of the others.

Tribe Wins Two, Lands in Second Place; Dodgers-Giants Benefit Tonight

Army Relief Contest Expected To Bring in $100,000; Giants Split Twin Bill with Cardinals.

By The Associated Press

The Brooklyn Dodgers tangle with their neighbors from Harlem, the New York Giants, this evening in a contest that has generated more excitement in Gotham than any baseball battle since the last World Series.

This interborough brawl was just another Monday ball game when the schedule was drawn months ago but now it's an important struggle with army relief the principal beneficiary.

When the two National league rivals played for navy relief in the Dodgers' park in May they took in about $60,000, a mark none of the other teams has touched. This time, with everybody who goes through the gates buying a ticket anad many others purchasing ducats without going to the game, officials won't be satisfied with anything less than $100,000.

Mungo vs. Wyatt

The extra special attraction will be Van Lingle Mungo, new addition to the Giants' pitching staff, hurling against the Dodgers, whose uniform he wore when he was the terror of the majors not so many years ago. Whitlow Wyatt will be Brooklyn's starting pitcher.

The Giants helped the Dodgers preserve their nine-game lead yesterday by splitting a doubleheader with the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, which is all the Dodgers could do with the Chicago Cubs.

It took the Dodgers 10 innings to turn back the Cubs, 5-4, in the first game. In the second, Claude Passeau pitched the Cubs to a 7-6 triumph.

Carl Hubbell pitched the Giants to a 7-2 decision over the Cardinals for his fifth straight win as Mel Ott blasted two home runs, one with the bases loaded. Then Mort Cooper tossed a four-hitter at the Giants and the Cards won, 3-2.

Reds Divide Pair

The Cincinnati Reds clung to their one-game third-place margin over the Giants by splitting with the Boston Braves. Al Javery blanked the Reds 7-0 on five hits in the first game, but Cincinnati took the second 4-2.

The Pittsburgh Pirates dumped the Philadelphia Phils, 4-2 and 3-2, and hopped over the Cubs into fifth place.

In the American league, the New York Yankees downed the St. Louis Browns twice, 4-2 and 10-0, and stretched their lead to 12½ games over the Cleveland Indians, who wrested second place from the Boston Red Sox with the help of the Detroit Tigers.

The Indians nosed out the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-3 and 4-2.

The Detroit Tigers knocked the Boston Red Sox into third place by four percentage points, taking the first game, 8-4, as Paul (Dizzy) Trout pitched seven-hit ball and contributed a three-run homer. The Tigers annexed the second, 6-2.

Washington's scheduled doubleheader at Chicago was postponed.

Marion City and County Schools Face Possible Shortage of Coaches.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

SIX months ago your correspondent, and a great many other sports followers, would have been willing to wager any complications arising in the high school athletic setup here would result from severe war-time restrictions. However, turn of events in the last few weeks has thrown an entirely different light on the setup. It is the lack of coaches to direct sports which may force Marion city and county schools to abandon certain inter-scholastic athletic programs.

The resignation of William O. "Bill" Williams as Harding grid mentor to accept a position at University High school, Columbus, left Harding with neither an assistant nor head coach. Of last year's staff, which produced the only unscored on Class A team in the state, only Howard Hoffman, reserve coach, remains.

George Niemi, assistant varsity coach in charge of linesmen, was given a leave of absence by the board of education recently to enter Comm. Gene Tunney's navy physical fitness division. Ralph Simpson, Central Junior High football coach, entered the same branch of the service several months ago.

Although the present plight of school boy athletics is far from a desirable situation, local fans need not harbor strong fears. The program built up here through the work of Coaches Williams and Niemi has taken root and, if allowed to continue to operate, will assure more than average success.

Shortly after announcing his resignation, Coach Williams predicted football would continue to flourish in Marion as long as the junior high school program was continued.

Because of the excellent Harding grid record of the last four years, the vacant coaching positions will attract many of the leading school boy mentors of the state. Despite several attempts, I was unable to ascertain whether or not the board had any particular man in mind for either coaching job. Some action is likely to be forthcoming when the board is officially informed today by Supt. E. E. Holt of Williams' resignation.

Regardless of who may be appointed head coach by the board, it seems to me that George Niemi, who has played a major role in developing Harding's great teams of the last four years, should be offered the head coaching job immediately following the war. In view of the fact that he was originally granted a leave of absence, and considering Williams' resignation, Niemi is the logical man to step into the head coaching spot.

Records, I believe, will show that Niemi's line has been by far the toughest in the state as well as in the six-team North Central Ohio conference.

LIKE Harding High school and Central Junior High schools, Marion St. Mary swings into the grid season minus Nicholas Padgen, who resigned as head coach Saturday to enter a marine corps officers training school at Quantico, Va. Padgen's successor will be the fourth official coach at St. Mary in less than a year. He came here late in the 1941-1942 basketball season to succeed Paul Hogan, who resigned to become an assistant coach at Ironton High school. Hogan was preceded by Bernard "Beanie" Berens, former all-Ohio conference cage star from Ohio university.

ALTHOUGH no resignations have been received from any of the county Class B coaches, it is understood through reliable sources that several coaches, now working in defense industries, may seek leaves of absence or retire from coaching altogether. Several hundred Class A and B coaches throughout the state are working in defense plants this summer. Many have already notified their respective boards of education of their resignations. Resignations received after Aug 1 can be disregarded by boards, according to regulations of the state department of education. However in most cases this rule is not enforced.

BOB ZUPPKE, FORMER ILLINOIS COACH, TO LEAD ALL-STAR 11

Chicago Tribune Lists Five Big-Time Mentors As Assistants.

Selection as head coach of Robert C. Zuppke, former head of the University of Illinois football program for 29 years, rounds out a nationally-famous coaching staff to direct the college all-stars in their Aug. 28 engagement in Soldier's field, Chicago, with the Chicago Bears, National Professional Football league titlists. Announcement of Zuppke's appointment was made yesterday by the Chicago Tribune, sponsors of the annual charity contest.

Marion Youth on Squad

Jack Stephenson, 1941 Ohio State university grid captain and son of Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Stephenson of 488 South Vine street, is one of 75 former college stars named to the squad in a recent nation-wide fan poll. Jack Graf of Upper Arlington, Dick Fisher of Columbiana and James Daniell of Pittsburgh, Pa., all 1941 Bucks, were also elected to all-star berths. Both Daniell and Graf placed first in the tackle and fullback ballot-ing, respectively, to win places in the starting line-up.

Bob Zuppke

Zuppke has been a coach for nearly 40 years, receiving the appointment to the Big 10 school after working football charms as a high school coach at Muskegon, Mich., and Oak Park, Ill. While at Illinois his teams won seven Western Conference championships. His collegiate record included 132 victories, 79 defeats and 12 ties.

Notified in Chicago of his appointment as head coach, Zuppke praised the Bear's 1941 team as one of the greatest in football history but said that he believed the proper combination could beat them. He said:

"There is no team so strong it can't be beaten. The all-stars can win this game and we are going to get that idea across at the opening practice. You can't beat the Bears with old-fashioned, orthodox football. You have to cross them up. Maybe we can do it."

Failed To Earn Letter

Zuppke will be competing against one of his best pupils in George Halas, owner and coach of the powerful Bear eleven. Halas starred at Illinois shortly before the first World War.

Incidentally, Zuppke is probably one of the great modern football coaches who couldn't win a college football letter. At the University of Wisconsin Zuppke was a member of the varsity squad for three years but each year failed to earn a letter. He was graduated from there in 1905.

He will be surrounded by a great staff in prepping the all-stars. Aides include Burt Ingwerson, Northwestern line coach; Homer Norton, Texas A & M; Lon Stiner, Oregon State; Frank Leahy, Notre Dame; and Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern.

Members of the all-star squad have been ordered to report Aug. 8 to Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., to begin a 20-day training period. During the training period the all-stars will be housed in university buildings.

FINDLAY COACH TO GET MIAMI POST

By The Associated Press

OXFORD, O., Aug 3—Football Coach Stuart Holcomb of Miami university announced appointment of Walter "Pinkey" Wilson, Findlay, O., high school coach and an All-Ohio quarterback at Muskingum college as his assistant. Wilson has been at Findlay since 1935.

CINCINNATI SPLITS PAIR WITH BOSTON

Reds Playing Exhibition Tilt at Buffalo Today.

By The Associated Press

BUFFALO, Aug. 3—Homeward bound from an eastern trip on which they won seven and lost six, the Cincinnati Reds stopped here for an exhibition game tonight with the Buffalo Bisons.

The Redlegs divided a doubleheader and the four-game series at Boston yesterday, losing the first game 7-0 and gaining their 14th victory in 18 starts against the Braves by a 4-2 score in the nightcap.

Al Javery, who had lost three straight for the Reds, whitewashed them on five hits—three by Bert Haas—in the opener. Max West's 400-foot home run with the bases filled decided the contest in the first frame. West's blow came before Elmer Riddle had retired a man and followed a single, walk and bunt.

Paul Derringer survived 11 Boston safeties in the nightcap.

The Reds broke a string of 25 scoreless innings to help Derringer to his sixth victory in the seventh frame. Eric Tipton homered with one out; Frank Kelleher walked; Frank McCormick fouled for the second out, then Eddie Joost knocked his fifth homer of the year.

RED BIRDS BOOK TRY-OUT SESSIONS

Three-Day Camp Open To Boys 17 or Over.

The annual try-out camp of the Columbus Red Birds will be held at Red Bird stadium in Columbus August 21-23, it was announced today by Columbus baseball club officials. The three-day camp is open to boys who have reached their seventeenth birthday and who have played on high school, American Legion or sandlot baseball teams.

The three-day camp will be conducted under the supervision of Columbus and St. Louis Cardinal scouts and will enable young players seeking to make baseball their careers to obtain a contract. Boys qualifying will be tendered contracts with clubs of the St. Louis Cardinals organization.

Enrollees in the camp are expected to provide their uniforms, including shoes, gloves, etc., and are also required to furnish their transportation and living arrangements. However, boys who are signed to contracts will be refunded traveling and living expenses while in camp.

In the past seasons the Columbus camp has sent several players into organized baseball.

Big Leagues in Tribute To Baseball's Founder

By The Associated Press

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 3—American baseball returned to this small upstate New York town where it was born and cradled today as the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Athletics prepared to clash in a major league exhibition on Doubleday field.

The game is the second annual one played by major leaguers in tribute to Abner Doubleday, who in 1839 on a Cooperstown cow pasture organized the first baseball contest.

Army Benefit Golf Tourney Is Delayed

The army emergency relief tournament, previously scheduled for Sunday on the Mar-O-Del course, was postponed until Sunday, Aug 9 because of unfavorable weather.

Also on tap for next Sunday is a match play tourney between 16 Mar-O-Del golfers and the same number of linksmen representing the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

The S.O.P. has presented several par shooting golfers who promise to make next Sunday's match a close one.

Weigel's Single With Bases Full Decides Game

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 3—Ralph Weigel singled with the bases loaded last night to give the Charleston Senators a 10-inning 6 to 5 victory over the Erie sailors. Third baseman Larue Savage scampered home with the payoff run.

Dayton split a double bill at Zanesville, winning the afternoon game 4 to 0, and losing the night finale 4 to 3.

Canton nosed out Springfield 3 to 1 in a six-inning game cut short by weather.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Is it no. Well, football gets under way this week. Most of the pro teams are starting to train; Lieut. Col. Bob Neyland's all-Army players are reading for their New Haven, Conn., camp and the Texas High school all-star game and recruit roundup is scheduled for next Saturday at Abilene. Just to show you how the fans go for different sports in different places, the same night they'll play that big All-Star football game in Chicago, Indianapolis will put on an All-Star basketball game between the pick of its 1942 high school grads and a Kentucky bunch. . . .

The Answer Men—When Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns was soaked a $25 fine for a recent run-in with an ump he said he was tempted to pay it with a rubber check. "Just so when Harridge notified me the check was bad I could say, 'Yeh, and it makes us even so was the decision!'" And when someone asked old Satch Paige what kind of food made him so durable, he replied: "I'm on a strict diet—strictly fried foods, that's all I eats." . . .

Shorts and Shells—Gloria Callen and Ed Pope, the Yale splasher, are in the social swim together these days. A Texas horseman, who doesn't want the boys making touches, tells that he has had a $20 straight bet on every horse Ben Jones has started this season and so far the profits are $1,600. . . John C. Hoffman of the Chicago Times suggests Ted Lyons for manager of the White Sox "when the current succession of failures has come to a close." . . .

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 — Connie Mack comes up with the idea that the major leagues will have to reduce their player limits next season "for the simple reason that there won't be enough players." . . Connie figures that such a reduction, particularly in pitching staffs, will improve the game. . . Pacific Coast league tried cutting the limit this year and about the only result was a phony "suspension" every time a player was hurt so another guy could be put on the active list. . . Our idea is that enough minor leagues will fold up before next summer that there will still be a plentiful supply of players still out of the army, but that the clubs likely will have to take a few that wouldn't ordinarily be major leaguers. . . .

Feminine Figures — Bob Hooey of the Ohio State Journal tells one about a feminine baseball fan who protested that his story of a game had credited the Columbus pitcher with too many strikeouts. . . Bob looked up his score book and verified that Precaher Roe had whiffed 11, rival batsmen that particular night. . . "Yes, he did," admitted the fan, "but at the same time he struck out twice himself. So doesn't two from 11 leave nine?" . . . Maybe she had something there. . . .

Service Dept.—Capt. Joe Dasher of Fort Leavenworth, Kans., speaks seven languages and has a working knowledge of 13 others, which makes him a pretty valuable man to the army intelligence department. But so far he hasn't had much use for still another language which he has used for 10 years calling the plays to football scribes in the Pitt stadium press box. . . Lake Russell, former Mercer U. football coach now stationed in Iceland, got the surprise of his life recently when he approached a sentry and instead of hearing the usual "who goes there?" the challenge was "Hello, Coach, pass by". . Sure enough, the sentry was a Georgia boy.

Legion Junior Baseball Tourney in Second Day

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 3—The State American Legion junior baseball tournament entered its second day today with games scheduled between Cincinnati and Cleveland, Columbus and Elyria, Lima and Louisville, Youngstown and Defiance, and Zanesville and Springfield.

In opening play yesterday Columbus turned back Youngstown 5 to 0, Cincinnati defeated Springfield 5 to 3, Elyria beat Zanesville 13 to 7, Lima edged Defiance 4 to 1, and Cleveland walloped Louisville 15 to 4.

Two defeats are necessary to eliminate a team.

Ordnance Plant Defeats Bucyrus Players, 13 to 10

The Scioto Ordnance Plant baseball team edged out the Bucyrus Deal House players by a score of 13 to 10 in a 10-inning game Friday night at Bucyrus.

Ramsey and Everly pitched for the S.O.P. nine, with Keller and N. Cafagno catching.

Traxler pitched for the Bucyrus team and Sietz was catcher. Home runs for the S.O.P. team were scored by Ramsey and McCarmonds; B. Fegly and Oborn scored homes for Deal House.

7 TEAMS CLOSE IN ASSOCIATION RACE

Columbus Wins Twin Bill from Minneapolis.

By The Associated Press

The battle royal in the American Association continues with seven teams still clinging to pennant possibilities and all but last place St. Paul having excellent prospects of ending the season next month with a .500 or better percentage.

Seventh place Toledo, for instance, is just three games shy of a .500 rating and only seven games out of first place. Kansas City, in first place by a game and a half, has won only 11 more games than it has lost.

The Blues increased their league lead by a half game yesterday although Indianapolis held them to an even break in a double header, the day's only divided twin bill.

Milwaukee, a game out of first before yesterday's encounters, lost both to Louisville, 4-1 and 3-2, and fell to third place when Columbus won a pair from Minneapolis, 7-5 and 11-4. Toledo also swept its twin bill, defeating St. Paul, 6-2 and 8-6.

Kansas City turned back Indianapolis, 8-0 on Johnny Johnson's three-hit pitching in the opener, but lost the second, 6 to 5.

Highlights Of Week-End Sports

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO—Robert C. Zuppke, former University of Illinois football mentor, named head coach of Collegiate All Stars for charity game with Chicago Bears.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles retained Western Open tennis title by defeating Art MacDonald, also of Los Angeles, in four set final, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

CHICAGO — Rounders, Irish bred colt owned by Emerson F. Woodward of Texas, surprised by defeating Whirlaway by three lengths in $25,000 added Arlington handicap. Rounders, 5 to 1 shot, led all the way and did mile and quarter in 2:04 on soft track.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—Apache, William Woodward's three-year-old, won Wilson mile in 1:37 on track deep with mud while United States Hotel stakes at six furlongs went to W. E. Boeing's Devil's Thumb in 1:12 4-5.

Sewer Fee Urged To Finance Work at Treatment Plant

City Officials Cite Neglect in Past Years of $500,000 Plant; Explain Need for Funds.

To give Marion residents as much information as possible about the sewage rental fee proposal now before city council, The Star has arranged to publish a series of articles about the plant. The articles of which this is the first, will present the reasons given by city officials for proposing the rental fee and their arguments in favor of it.

Eighteen years ago last month Marion put its then new half-million-dollar sewage treatment works into operation, and for a decade it was one of the city's sources of pride, attracting engineers and sewage treatment experts from all over the world

Today, it is described by city officials as one of Marion's shames, because no private home owner would neglect his property the way the city has neglected this investment

Three times in recent years city officials have attempted to do something about the situation.

Twice they submitted the matter to the citizens in the form of bond issues and tax levies However, voters have only a vague idea of what actually was happening at the plant, and they voted down the proposals

Once before a sewer rental fee program was proposed that would assess each sewer user an annual fee It was set up as a permanent fee and was met with protests that defeated it.

Would Run 5 Years

Now, again officials have proposed the sewer rental fee, this time as a five-year measure If enacted, it would raise between $27,000 and $37,000 a year. That would pay for the cost of operating the plant and enough extra to help correct some of the conditions that exist in the city sewer system City officials cite two of many instances to prove their point (1) raw sewage is running through an open ditch across one farm west of Marion rather than being piped to the sewage treament works, (2) in one outlying section of Marion 26 houses are connected to a private cesspool designed to serve 14 houses

Here are some of the reasons officials give for introducing the sewer rental fee proposal rather than some other means of financing.

Used In Other Cities

Ninety-eight Ohio communities were financing such problems by sewer rental fees as of January, 1941, according to a state health department report. Bucyrus, Carey, Delaware, Mansfield, Marysville and Richwood are among them The fees range from 72 cents to $18 a year, but for the most part are $4, $5 or $6 a year Marion's proposed charge per family is $1 a year.

The sewer rental fee is regarded as a fairer means of financing than a bond issue or tax levy. Records show about 78 per cent of Marion's population uses the sewer system and sewage treatment works. The fee proposal would place the costs on persons who benefit directly from these services

To submit another tax levy or special bond issue to the voters would be expensive, and besides, voters twice have turned down such proposals.

A great many cities regard sewer and sewage treament facilities as a public utility, something akin to a municipal water or electric plant Officials point out that the public would expect to pay a municipal water plant, for example, for the water received, and that sewer and sewage treatment service logically should be paid for in the same general way —by the persons who get the service rather than the taxpayers at large.

PELLEY ON STAND IN SEDITION TRIAL

Former Silver Shirts Leader First Defense Witness.

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 3—William Dudley Pelley took the witness stand in his own defense today in his sedition trial and testified that he "hadn't the slightest ideal of interfering with recruiting or the nation's war effort" in his writings.

The goateed, 52-year-old founder of the Silver Shirts of America was the first witness for the defense. Two associates, Lawrence Brown and Miss Agnes Marian Henderson, are on trial with him. The government charges that articles published by Pelley's printing firm at Noblesville, Ind., were intended to obstruct America's conduct of the war.

Describing his organization of the Silver Shirts in February, 1933, Pelley said the order's "sole purpose was to combat the inroads of Communism." The only requirements for membership, he testified, "were Christian faith and a willingness to support the Constitution of the United States"

He said he terminated the Silver Shirts with the formation of Dies congressional committee to investigate un-American activities and explained, "they were no longer needed."

He testified he had signed more than 25,000 silver shirt registration cards from 47 states.

He said he organized the Silver Shirts "because the Communists were taking over America under cover," and that his purpose was to "educate the public to the danger."

He told the jury he was the sole author of matter that appeared in 'The Galilean," his magazine, excepting some articles that were credited to other writers.

Defense Attorney Floyd Christian asked Pelley as to his attitude prior to the entrance of the United States into the war. Pelley replied he believed the United States "should keep out because it would be in a more powerful position when the time for settlement came."

RICHWOOD SCHOOL PRINCIPAL EMPLOYED

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD—At a recent meeting of the Claiborne-Richwood school board Richard Fetter of Tiro, O., was hired as principal and coach, replacing Robert Miller who has accepted a position in a bank in Defiance.

Miss Esther Smith also of Tiro has been hired as commercial teacher replacing Mrs. Maxine Hall of Marion who will teach in the Pleasant Township school.

Mrs Lillian Wilson of Sunbury and Ralph Vestal of Richwood have been hired as new teachers in the grade school.

FINED FOR PANHANDLING

E. G. Aldrich, 52, of Piqua, O., was arrested by city police Sunday on charges of intoxication and panhandling. He was fined $15 and costs by Judge Hazen in Municipal court this morning.

Hardin County Boy Run Over by Automobile

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Aug 3—Dennis Lee Ault, 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Ault of northwest of Kenton, was seriously injured Saturday when wheels of an automobile operated by Orville Ruppright of Dola passed over a portion of his body. The child is in Antonin hospital

Members of the Ault family said that Dennis Lee and his small brother and sister were playing near the Ruppright car, parked in front of the Ault home. When Ruppright started away, a front wheel passed over the child who was standing directly in front of the car, screened from view of the driver

Arrest Man and Boy at Main Street Cafe

A Marion man and a 16-year-old Marion boy were taken into custody about 7 last night following what sheriff's officials termed a "brawl" in Peters' cafe on North Main street.

The man, E. C. Conley, who told officials he rooms on Oak street, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication filed by sheriff's officials when he was brought before Municipal Judge Hazen this morning. He was fined $10 and costs, a total of $16 20, and was remanded to the county jail until he pays the total.

No complaint was filed against the boy, who at first told officials he was 19, but later in the presence of his father at the county jail admitted to being 16. He was taken to the detention home, the eighteenth young person now lodged in the overcrowded home.

The boy has been involved in juvenile court on four other occasions, twice for delinquency and twice for truancy, records show. His father talked with Juvenile Judge Gast this morning and it was agreed to leave the youth at the detention home until the middle of the week.

REV. ROEBUCK UNION SERVICE SPEAKER

Gives Sermon at First Evangelical and Reformed Church

Union church services were held at First Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday night with Rev. Garrison Roebuck of First United Brethren church giving the sermon. Rev. Henry Maag, chairman of the committee in charge, presided.

Scripture was read by Dr. Harry L. Bell of Central Christian church and prayer was offered by Rev. H. C. Ahrens of Salem Evangelical and Reformed.

Rev. Roebuck spoke on "Tames Versus Spiritual Realities," illustrating from the lives of King Solomon and St Paul. Solomon's ideal was to get things, Paul's was to give, he compared. Musical offering was an anthem by the church choir.

Service of the Christian Young People's union was in charge of the United Brethren youth group. Robert Barnhart, Miss Florence Orahood and Miss Gwen Coler led those present in considering the topic "Enlisting Others Through Group Effort." Miss Reva Converse sang a solo.

Cars driven by Gladys M Best, 39, of 858 North Main street and Jack R. Fahey, 18, of 225 Olney avenue collided about 10 a m Sunday at Center and State streets.

Bessie B. Roberts, 51, of 281 Barnhart street and Marvin E Wolbert, 22, of near Marion were drivers of autos which collided at the intersection of Main and Center streets Saturday afternoon

SCHOOL POPULATION DECLINE REPORTED

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 3—Population of children between the ages of 5 and 17 in Crawford county has dropped considerably during the last year, figures compiled by the county auditor disclosed today

In 1941 children in this age group numbered 7,435 as compared with 7,294 this year. Galion is high with 1,834 in this school age group and Bucyrus is second with 1,629.

The enumerations are taken annually in each school district as an indication of the number of students to be expected during the next term.

UNION COUNTY DECLINES

MARYSVILLE, Aug 3—Union county will have 91 fewer children attending school this year than during the last term, it was indicated in the report of County Auditor Frank E. Smith of the enumeration to the state department.

The total number of prospective students between the ages of 5 and 18 for Union county schools including Marysville is 3,641 as compared with 3,732 last term which was 66 lower than the previous term. Marysville schools with 861 students available for the coming year have 34 less prospective students than in the previous year.

DAVIDS STREET MAN IN NAVAL RESERVES

C. J. Stutzman Enlists; Booklets Here for Distribution.

Enlistment of a Marion man and receipt of 165 copies of a free pamphlet, "Men Make the Navy and the Navy Makes Men" were reported today by Chief Petty Officer C. F. Siber of the Marion navy recruiting station.

The new enlistment is Clifford John Stutzman of 835 Davids street, who is in the naval reserves for two years. He was accepted last week-end in Toledo.

The new pamphlet, which the recruiting office will distribute, one to a family, until the supply is exhausted, is an illustrated booklet.

It deals with the fighting action of the navy, the training, the 49 skilled jobs which the navy offers recruits, pay, promotions and other phases of the navy program. Anyone may have a copy by calling at the recruiting station in the Marion post office building.

Marion Man Fined In Bus Company Theft

Harry Bocker, 50, of Bryant street, arrested by police Friday on charges of petty larceny and intoxication filed by officials of the Marion Rapid Transit Co. pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs by Judge Hazen in municipal court this morning.

2 BICYCLES STOLEN

Theft of two bicycles Saturday afternoon from the downtown district was reported to police over the week-end. The [illegible] are Howard Sanders [illegible] avenue and Marion [illegible] Pearl street.

More Than 100 Galion Citizens Have Blood "Typed" at City Hospital

BY EVELYN LONG
Special to The Star

GALION, Aug 3 — Over 100 Galion citizens have had their blood typed at the emergency laboratory at the city hospital, it was revealed by Catherine Cobb, laboratory technician there today. The typing was necessary to establish a system of typing blood so that in case the necessity arises, emergency blood transfusions there will be complete. A total of persons had their type of blood determined by the [illegible] 3 or 4

It has been suggested as defense [illegible] that persons should have the knowledge of their type" tattooed [illegible] so that in case of serious injury time could be saved in securing a transfusion" of the same type

From First Aid Classes

Miss Cobb said that many of the men and women who have volunteered have been from the first aid classes [illegible] with the civilian defense [illegible]

In the hospital laboratory Miss Cobb has since the special test March 3rd, organized [illegible] service which, before had been unavailable to Galion doctors unless they had their own equipment in their own office. Much of the [illegible] work has before been sent to neighboring city hospitals, gratuitously causing a delay in reports. Miss Cobb said that now reports of her work are often available to doctors within a few minutes whereas formerly it was a matter of three or four days

The importance of the "club" will be of the utmost value as war duties call many of the local physicians. There has been no system inaugurated as yet for a "blood bank" due in large part to the lack of refrigeration facilities necessary [illegible] such a project If such were installed as has been done in many hospitals

Miss Cobb is a graduate of the Northwestern Institute of Medical Technology at Minneapolis She was employed for six years in a laboratory in Milwaukee and prior to coming to Galion served as a laboratory technician for a doctor in one of the large oil field districts in Texas

DRIVER ARRESTED

Police arrested Ben F. Brammer, 26, of Uhrichsville about 1:45 Saturday afternoon on a charge of running a red light on South Main street. He forfeited $3 bond when he failed to appear in municipal court today

BUYING PROPS STOCK MARKET

Rails Help Steady List After Indecision at Opening Today.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 — Quiet buying of rail and liquor issues helped prop the stock market today after considerable early indecision.

Small fractional variations ruled at the opening but quotations began to harden around mid-day without stirring up much in the way of volume. A number of favorites were at new highs.

The list was confronted by uninspiring war news, tax prospects and confused inflation thinking. Lack of any real liquidation, however, brought in some bidding on the persistent idea a lot of bearish happenings may have been pretty well discounted.

Stocks in the new high division included Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Schenley and Distillers Corp. Up most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, United Aircraft, Chrysler and General Motors.

The mild revival of the distillery group was attributed mainly to last week's order of the OPA revising upward price ceilings in this industry.

HYBRID ALFALFA ON HORIZON NOW

WASHINGTON — Hybrid alfalfas bred like hybrid corn in four-way crosses for superior qualities and for the same kind of high production that results from hybrid vigor are in prospect, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. A new method of breeding and managing the plants that bear the hybrid seed has been developed and tested. Similarly managed seed fields would supply the commercial alfalfa seed for planting of the hay and pasture acreage.

Alfalfa, highly desirable as a feed for livestock because of its vitamin, mineral, and high protein content, is the most important hay crop grown in the United States, and an important pasture crop, as well. Recently, it has been gaining favor with livestock feeders for use as ensilage. Because it is a deep-rooted legume, it ranks among the best soil building crops. Last year farmers grew nearly 15 million acres.

As with hybrid corn, commercial alfalfa seed will be bred from selected and tested foundation plants that hybridize well to produce desirable, vigorous, and generally uniform plants. Fields planted with hybrid seed would be expected to yield materially more than if seeded with ordinary open-pollinated seed. Early indications point to alfalfa yield increases on a par with the gains from use of hybrid corn seed.

WHEAT AND CORN PRICES FALL TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—Wheat and corn prices fell about a cent a bushel today, the former to new seasonal lows and the latter to bottom figures for two months. Before the grain market rallied late in the session.

More favorable weather for spring wheat harvest and corn progress through the critical earforming stage, war news and a private forecast of record yields of major crops in Canada had a depressing effect.

The Searle Grain Co. estimate of wheat production in the three western Canadian provinces was 553,543,000 bushels, or almost double that of last year and much larger than the reduced acreage indicated earlier in the season. Grain men estimated that if this large Canadian crop should materialize, North America would have almost 2,500,000,000 bushels or wheat, including carryover and 1942 production, while home requirements for a full year are only about a third of that.

FARM OUTPUT TO REACH GOAL

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—The nation's first wartime agricultural production goal, calling for the greatest American farm output on record to meet United Nations' food demands, is likely to be achieved, an analysis by livestock, produce and grain trade experts indicated today.

The 1942 output of some commodities may fall slightly below that sought under the program assigned farmers shortly after Pearl Harbor, while some goals are being exceeded.

At least, the American agricultural production machine is over the hump in its effort this year. Farmers have been greatly aided by unusually favorable weather, except in a few sections, and crop damage has been at a minimum. Furthermore, fields and pastures throughout most of the nation now are in good condition because of excellent precipitation to continue the drive toward even greater production in 1943. New agricultural goals are expected to be announced soon.

The accompanying table shows actual agricultural achievement this year compared with the goals established early in the season. In the case of crops, acreages now standing for harvest are given and in many instances high yields to a large extent will make up for smaller acreage than last year or failure to reach acreage goals assigned. As result, actual production may be near or better than last year.

In the case of milk and egg production as well as livestock slaughter, approximate achievement for the first six months is shown. By doubling these figures a rough estimate of output for the full year is available, although this does not hold true in some cases of seasonally smaller production the last half of the year.

	1942 Goal	1942 Achievement	1941
Milk (billion pounds)	125	62.1(X)	116.5

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING M D

Feeding a Cold

Where did the proverb "feed a cold and starve a fever" come from? And does it make sense? Dr. Grant A. Gallacher of Lansing, Mich., has been investigating this old wives' tale and has been able to find out a few facts about its origin and its value as a medical guide.

None of the great authorities on medicine in the days of Hippocrates, the father of medicine, or in the days of Galen, who lived in Rome in the second century A. D., seem to have mentioned the saying. It first appears in the writings of Paracelsus, a famous physician of the 16th century. He definitely recommended a diet for fevers and one for summer colds. He advocated a strong diet for the body during a fever and pointed to the deduction from this that a cold "starving" would prevent it. Both colds and fevers are plenty of bad enough.

Both Are Infections

But there is really no scientific basis for what Hippocrates said, nor for the opinion about feeding a cold and starving a fever. A cold and a fever are essentially the same thing—that is, both are infections. The idea of cold as opposed to heat (fever) is a reincarnation of the old humoral theory of disease which stated that the body was made up of heat, cold, wet and dry humours, and that if they were in perfect balance, the situation was healthy. If one of them got out of balance or got the upper hand, there was disease, and disease was of either a hot, cold, wet or dry nature.

Not Supported by Fact

The saying has no wisdom and is not supported by any scientific facts. It probably arose as a saying of some very conscientious grandmother — a saying which seemed so apt that it passed from mouth to mouth and has become part of our ordinary speech. The average man, says Dr. Gallacher, "has always been notorious for his ability to think along the lines of least resistance." But the physician has some tendency along that line too. If anyone will show me a physician who really knows how to cure a cold, I will withdraw my prejudices against the saying about stuffing a cold and starving a fever.

Little Known About Colds

Doctors are often joked by their friends when they show up with a fever blister or a stye. They are supposed to know so much that they can prevent all such things, but the unhappy fact is that it is the common little things that the medical profession knows the least about. In this category is the common cold. We should know about it, considering that one out of every three people have from one to three colds a year, but we don't.

Physicians are supposed to be able to conserve their health better than the average citizen, but statistics show, as compiled by Dr. Bock, of the Department of Hygiene of Harvard university, that among the medical students, 42 per cent required hospitalization on account of diseases about which the faculty had just lectured to them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A.W.T. What is the relation between ulcer of the stomach and gallbladder trouble?

Answer. Gallbladder trouble often gives symptoms which are very much like ulcer of the stomach. There is, however, seldom any real connection or relation between ulcer of the stomach and gallbladder disease.
